THE SHOW COMES TO TOWN

The connections of Music Show (Ire) (Noverre) had been cursing their luck ahead of yesterday's G1 Falmouth S., but Jaber Abdullah's bay made up for any prior misfortunes with this clear-cut success on Newmarket's July Course. Having led home the unfavored far-side group to be sixth in the G1 1000 Guineas on the Rowley Mile here May 2, she ran third in the Irish equivalent May 23 and fourth in the G1 Coronation S. last time June 18. The 13-2 shot was settled in the rear early by Richard Hughes and, after creeping into the contest, overwhelmed the long-time leader Spacious (GB) (Nayef) in the final 100 yards en route to a two-length success. "They went fast and I knew they were going to stop," Hughes commented. "[Trainer] Mick [Channon] kept telling me she had had no luck in running, but she was very good today." Cont. p2

NY LOTTERY DQ'S TWO CASINO BIDDERS

In a statement released yesterday, New York Lottery Director Gordon Medenica announced that two of the three would-be operators of a video lottery casino at Aqueduct were disqualified from consideration after it was deemed their "proposals did not conform with the requirements of the competition and, instead, attempted to negotiate for terms more favorable to the bidders."

Penn National Gaming and the consortium of SL Green, Hard Rock International and Clairvest Group were both eliminated, leaving the Malaysian-based Genting New York as the only remaining bidder in the process that has dragged on for almost a decade. Genting's bid "appears to conform with all requirements of the bid submission process and will continue to be evaluated," according to the statement. Genting still requires the approval of the Division of Lottery and then unanimous approval from Governor David Paterson and leaders of the state legislature. If Genting is not approved, neither of the disqualified bidders will be eligible to be reconsidered. A decision from the Lottery is expected Aug. 3.

Music Show stepped up from a no-show in Ayr's six-furlong G3 Firth of Clyde S. in September to win the G2 Rockfel S. over a panel further on Newmarket's alternate course on Champions' Day. She returned there to defy a penalty in the Apr. 14 G3 Nell Gwyn S. before facing an insurmountable task when left high and dry in the centre of the track in this year's 1000 Guineas in which the draw played a major part. After emerging best of her group in sixth overall, connections were left with the feeling that a Classic had gone begging, and tried again at The Curragh three weeks later, where she was a head and a neck behind Bethrah (Ire) (Marju {Ire}) and Anna Salai (Dubawi {Ire}). Her wide passage was blamed for her subsequent fourth in Royal Ascot's G1 Coronation S., and she lined up here with a point to prove. In no hurry early as Kieren Fallon and Spacious took on Strawberrydaiquiri (GB) (Dansili {GB}) up front, the bay filly traveled ominously well as the Spacious shook off the pressure. As that Cheveley Park filly began to tread water approaching the final furlong with all the hard work already behind her, it was Music Show who delivered a killer kick to put her stamp on proceedings. "In Ireland, she was in daylight the whole way and, after Ascot, I was in bits, because she had no run at all, but she's a class filly who has just been unfortunate in lots of races," Mick Channon said. "She's put it right today in what is probably the best fillies' race of the year. Everything went great and [Richard Hughes] could sit in behind and take his time." Connections are looking at the G1 Prix Rothschild at Deauville Aug. 1 and the G1 Matron S. at Leopardstown Sept. 4. There were two disappointments among the sophomore division. One was the 9-4 favorite Lillie Langtry (Ire) (Daneshill Dancer {Ire}), who after chasing the early pace faded to be fifth. "I'm not really sure what happened," Aidan O'Brien told PA Sport. "Johnny [Murtagh] said she just didn't pick up, but for what reason we'll just have to see." The other flop was the promoted G1 1000 Guineas and G1 Poule d'Essai des Pouliches winner Special Duty (GB) (Hennessy), who was rank early and trailed in seventh. "She didn't run her race," trainer Criquelette Head-Maarek told PA Sport. "Maybe something will come out, but I don't know. She's been working very well, but she's walking like a dead horse." On the scant evidence offered prior to this contest, Memory had been pigeon-holed as a slow-starter after giving away ground on both her winning debut at Goodwood May 19 and in Royal Ascot's G3 Albany S. last time June 18. Despite that drawback, her finishing relish on each occasion more than made up for any early tardiness, and she instantly dispelled doubts here when breaking with a zip. Close up behind the moderate early pace as a result, the bay was kept under restraint from Richard Hughes and, when asked to close, initially ran into a dead end approaching the final furlong. She was switched wide for her run, and demonstrated her scintillating change of gear to mow down Soraaya under a hand ride in the final 50 yards for a cozy success. "She is really good and didn't repeat her antics at the start," Hughes commented. "The nice thing about it was she was off the bit halfway down when the others were traveling really well and that's a good sign--it shows she is going to come good at the proper end and pull it out for you. I was happy to get cover, but I'm afraid of bans these days, so when a little gap came, I had to sit it out and go round. She is behaving better now." Trainer Richard Hannon added, "She has her own way of doing things and, when she got in the clear, I thought she won easily. We'll take it race by race, but the G1 Moyglare Stud S. [at The Curragh Aug. 29] is a race we'd like to win, so we'll talk to [Highclere's] Harry [Herbert]. She'll get a mile stood on her head next year." SNOW FAIRY ON COURSE FOR OAKS

Anamoine Ltd's Snow Fairy (Ire) (Intikhab) is due to be supplemented for Sunday's G1 Darley Irish Oaks, trainer Ed Dunlop announced yesterday. The bay filly didn't have any big-race entries prior to her neck defeat of Meeznah (Dynaformer) in the June 4 G1 Epsom Oaks, and will have to be added to the 12-furlong Curragh Classic. "She's fine and had a holiday after the Oaks, but did her first piece of work on Friday," Dunlop revealed. "She is not the biggest or most robust, but she looks stronger, so the plan is to supplement her, unless the ground is firm or very soft. I'm hoping Ryan Moore will ride her again, and I think the race will suit her, so hopefully we can pull it off again."

RACETRACK Round-Up

Turfway Cuts Kentucky Cup Races...

Turfway Park is seeking to cut all but one stakes race--the GIII Turfway Park Fall Championship--from its fall meet, it was announced yesterday. The Florence, Kentucky race-track has also asked the Kentucky Horse Racing Commission to eliminate four Wednesday cards. The Kentucky Cup Day of Champions, which includes the GII Classic, GIII Distaff and GIII Sprint, are among the stakes races to be dropped. "We were forced to make deep cuts to at least stay even with last fall's daily purse averages and support our local horsemen as best we can," track president Robert N. Elliston offered. "We have to do whatever we can to maximize our field size, which means fewer race dates. Churchill Downs ran four days instead of five except for Derby week during their spring meet, and their average field size fell below eight. Keeneland cut more than $1 million from its fall meet purse structure and dropped two graded stakes."

Elliston continued, "Except for Labor Day weekend, Ellis Park is racing only three days a week. Meanwhile, Indiana Downs just increased their purses by 30 percent and last month, on an ordinary Wednesday card, set a track wagering record. We are especially disappointed to have to drop the Kentucky Cup Day of Champions. Great horses came from all over for those races, and they've had a significant impact on the Breeders' Cup. If the state legislature allows us to level the playing field with surrounding states that enhance their purses with gaming revenue, the Kentucky Cup would be high on the list of races we would restore."

JULY SALE

July 6-8, 2010

YOUTH OF TODAY The second day of the Tattersalls July Sale finished just before 10 p.m. in Newmarket last night with two more additions, both juveniles, to the week's list of six-figure lots. The dear-

Drawing Board

est of the pair was Drawing Board (GB) (Pastoral Pursuits {GB})--a dual winner this season for trainer Kevin Ryan--who was the subject of a duel between Middle-Eastern buyers. Kern Lillingston's Alastair Donald lasted until 100,000gns, but the successful 115,000gns (US$183,212) offer came from Bahrain agent Jalil Al Mallah. He was accompanied by trainer Ramzi Hassan and locally based Armando Duarte, representing Qatari trainer Ibrahim Al-Malki. "He has been bought for owner Mubarak Al Naoimi and, although he'll eventually be going to Qatar, he'll be going back to Kevin Ryan now before possible heading out in October," said Al Mallah. "We thought he was a good buy; he cost less than we budgeted for. He's not a huge horse and is the right type for the sharp turns we have. There are some six- to seven-furlong races for him, but hopefully he will make a miler next season."

Fresh from Franny Freud (Freud)'s win in Sunday's GI Prioress S. at Belmont and buoyed by a favourable exchange rate, Tony Grey, the filly's breeder and co-owner, made his first visit to Tattersalls yesterday. "I didn't need a plane to get here, I could have floated over," quipped the New York-born, Florida-based investment banker. Grey races as Winter Park Partners with "three or four friends" and, using British-born and Californian-based agent Jamie Lloyd, he bid 100,000gns to get two-year-old Moment of Weakness (Ire) (Big Bad Bob {Ire}), with BBA Ireland's Michael Donohoe coming off second best. Cont. p6

The gelding has won two races on synthetic surfaces in Ireland for trainer Jessica Harrington, and is listed-placed on grass at Cork. "He's done both the Poly and turf here, so that gives us options on the West Coast, the question is which we do with him," said Grey, who principally races New York-breds. "He's an athlete and bred to run all day." Grey added, "It's my first visit here and I've loved it, and we thought that with the dollar being strong we would come over this year. It's a value thing and, hopefully, I'll be back in October."

Duarte and Al-Malki headed the morning trade when paying 80,000gns for Captain Coke (Ire) (Fath), star of Denis Quinn's 15-strong stable in Ireland's County Clare. The three-year-old, who won three times in Britain last month, was previously owned by Quinn's brother Peter, president of Deem Plumbing in Manhattan. "He'll stay in Britain to run a couple more times before going to Qatar, but I'm not sure who will train him here," said Al-Malki, after seeing off agent Geoffrey Howson. "He's rated 86 now, and we'd like to get his rating up a bit higher to make sure that he can get into the Dubai Carnival. As well as getting a sprinter like him, we're also looking for a 10-furlong type of horse."

The sale continues today with sessions at 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. For more information, go to www.tattersalls.com.

Last year's Breeders' Cup Marathon hero Man of Iron stages a quick return to the venue where he was third in the Listed Fred Archer S. 12 days ago. That was his first start for the Luca Cumani yard, and he is expected to come on for that effort. "Considering it was his first race since winning the Breeders' Cup Marathon and we were sure he would need the race, and then found himself in a race that ended up less of a test of stamina than seemed likely beforehand, he shaped very well," Cumani commented.

Elzaam, who was denied by a nose by Strong Suit (Rahy) in a renewal of Royal Ascot's G2 Coventry S. June 15 that is already starting to work out, bids to make amends here. "He's come out his run at Royal Ascot in A1 shape and I was very pleased with his performance there," trainer Michael Jarvis commented. "It was a high-class renewal of the Coventry S., and he ran a super race. He was out in front for quite a long time and he did start to look around a bit in the last half-furlong. While Strong Suit would have probably have been judged unfortunate if he didn't get up, I think if Elzaam hadn't idled a little bit in front, then we might have won. He was only having his second start, and we were very happy with him--he is a decent horse." Another who shone at the Royal meeting is Approve, who took the furlong-shorter G2 Norfolk S. and is faced with carrying a three-pound penalty here as he bids to emulate Winker Watson (GB) (Piccolo {GB}) in defying that to record the double. Godolphin's Neebras was another to succumb to Strong Suit on debut in a six-furlong Newbury maiden May 14, but he showed improvement afterwards with a four-length success over the same trip at Goodwood last time June 4.

NY OTB PRESIDENT RESIGNS Ray Casey resigned as president and chief executive officer of New York City Off-Track Betting Corporation and was replaced yesterday by Greg Rayburn. Casey had served as president of the beleaguered organization, which has been in bankruptcy since December, for the past eight years. Rayburn was a chief executive officer for the Magna Entertainment Corp. during its recent bankruptcy reorganization. "Ray Casey has stuck with NYCOTB through the good and the bad, and I commend him for his dedication," Chairman Lawrence Schwartz said. Of Casey's successor, Schwartz continued, "Mr. Rayburn's very specialized experience made him uniquely suited for the task, and we are pleased that he can begin work immediately." NYCOTB Board member Anthony Bergamo added, "The nature of the crisis demands a short engagement and fast results. We feel confident that Mr. Rayburn has the experience, talent and reputation to deliver a timely reorganization plan that NYCOTB's Board of Directors, its creditors and the court will accept." According to published reports, Rayburn is expected to make $125,000 a month in his new position. A statement from NYCOTB explained, "Mr. Rayburn comes with the support of major creditors of NYCOTB, who are owed nearly $100 million in total liabilities. As is typical with a bankruptcy restructuring, Mr. Rayburn's compensation is effectively being paid by the creditors, who would be due some portion of NYCOTB's assets in the event of a liquidation." Rayburn's appointment has the support of the New York Racing Association. "As its largest creditor, the New York Racing Association, Inc. fully supports the appointment of Greg Rayburn as the new CEO of the New York City Off-Track Betting Corporation," said NYRA chairman C. Steven Duncker. "His extensive experience of improving the operations of troubled companies across a range of industries gives us confidence that he will implement a viable plan of reorganization for NYCOTB that is mutually beneficial for New York and the Thoroughbred racing industry."

Free five-cross Thoroughbred pedigrees from equineline.com, which are downloaded more than 200,000 times per month, are now also available in a customized format for mobile devices following the launch of mobile.equineline.com by The Jockey Club Information Systems. Fireback benefited from positive tactics to win a seven-furlong maiden at Lingfield May 8 before finding Ascot's stiff mile too far when fading late to be ninth in the Britannia H. last time June 17. Placed prominently again here, the bay gained the edge approaching the final furlong and was driven out to hold Bagamoyo on the uphill climb to the line. Breaking well and prominent early, the grey took over approaching the furlong marker and gradually asserted to best Baransky (GB) (Green Desert) by 3 1/4 lengths.
