TURBULENT DESCENT ON THE RISE

Turbulent Descent (Congrats) looks to up her career unbeaten streak to three while stretching out and trying graded company for the first time in today's GI Hollywood Starlet S. The $160,000 OBSAPR two-year-old turned in a quick winning debut during the Oak Tree meet Oct. 3, earning the field's best Beyer Speed Figure of 91 and besting five next-out winners. The bay returned in the seven-furlong Moccasin S. here Nov. 21, stalking and pouncing to a 1 1/2-length score over Zazu (Tapit) while never asked for full effort. If she can stretch out successfully, Turbulent Descent should prove tough to collar. Ike and Dawn Thrash's Tell a Kelly (Tapit) rocketed to the front of the two-year-old filly class with a visually impressive, sweeping move that put her 4 1/2 lengths in front in the Sept. 4 GI Darley Debutante at Del Mar. She ran well to be second--beaten a half length--when routing for the first time in the GI Oak Leaf S. later on the same card as Turbulent Descent's unveiling, but was never in contention in the GI Breeders' Cup Juvenile Fillies Nov. 5 and checked in seventh. Conditioner John Sadler isn't concerned that his charge will turn in another non-effort here, telling Daily Racing Form, "I think it would be a big mistake to write her off after that one race. She's come back and trained well." Kaleem Shah's May Day Rose (Rockport Harbor) owns a course-and-distance victory in the Nov. 7 Sharp Cat S. for the newest member of the 2000-win club, Bob Baffert. The $220,000 OBSOPN juvenile should have her sights set on the early lead, but can expect company from Nina Fever (Borrogo). Hollywood Starlet field p4

J J The Jet Plane Blows Out for Sprint...

South Africa's J J The Jet Plane (SAf) (Jet Master {SAf}) signaled his readiness for Sunday's G1 Hong Kong Sprint, breezing over the Sha Tin all-weather surface and covering his final 400 meters in a blazing fast :21.2 with big-race rider Piere 'Striker' Styrdom merely a passenger. "Very happy with that," was trainer 'Lucky' Houdalakis' succinct appraisal of the morning work out. Winner of the G3 Al Quoz Sprint in 2009, the six-year-old was victorious in the Listed Leisure S. at Windsor, but failed to find the winner's circle in seven subsequent starts. His best result was a third in the G1 Darley July Cup. Sent back to his homeland in an attempt to regroup, J J The Jet Plane, champion South African sprinter of 2008, reascended to the throne this season, with wins in the G1 Golden Horse Sprint at Scottsville in May and in the G1 Mercury Sprint at Clairefontaine in July. HKIR coverage cont. p2

Whyte Takes Over Aboard Green Birdie...

Perennial leading local rider Douglas Whyte has been named to ride G1 KrisFlyer International Sprint winner Green Birdie (NZ) (Catbird {Aus}) in Sunday's G1 Hong Kong Sprint after regular jockey Mark Du Plessis was involved in a spill and injured in a race in New Zealand Friday. Green Birdie, the G2 Centaur S. runner-up, is one of several chances in the Sprint for which defending champion Sacred Kingdom (Aus) (Encosta de Lago {Aus}) is the likely race favorite.

Redwood Tunes Up for Vase...

Horses bearing the pink and green silks of Juddmonte Farms have gone agonizingly close in the G1 Hong Kong Vase, with Polish Summer (GB) (Polish Precedent) missing by 3/4 of a length behind Vallee Enchantee (Ire) (Peintre Celebre) in the 2003 renewal and Spanish Moon (El Prado {Ire}) failing by a short head to Daryakana (Fr) (Selkirk) in last year's running. The team are back with a live shot in the form of GI Northern Dancer Turf S. hero Redwood (GB) (High Chaparral {Ire}). Redwood defeated G1 Hong Kong Cup hopeful Sri Putra (GB) (Oasis Dream {GB}) in Goodwood's G3 Glorious S. July 30 and was a close second in the G2 Grand Prix de Deauville Aug. 29 prior to his Northern Dancer success. He enters the Vase off a third-place effort in the GI Canadian International S. Oct. 16 in which he rallied from seventh off no pace and missed by a head behind Joshua Tree (Ire) (Montjeu {Ire}).

The four-year-old turned in his final serious piece of work ahead of Sunday's 2400-meter event, covering the final quarter-mile of the Sha Tin turf in a strong :22.1 beneath Michael Hills. "The horse is in good form and we are very pleased with him," commented Charlie Hills, assistant to his father Barry. "He has no problem with travelling. You can forget his last run in the Canadian International at Woodbine. Redwood was bumped about and failed get a run."

Reggane Regaining Best Form...

Haras de la Perelle's Reggane (GB) (Red Ransom) had won just two of her 11 trips to the post going into Woodbine's GI E.P. Taylor S. Oct. 16, and was a 10-1 chance beneath Christophe Soumillon. Ridden quietly near the tail of the field, she switched out for the drive and ran by them all for a one-length victory. She had some hidden form to recommend her, as she'd finished runner-up in the G1 Coronation S. last season and was fifth, beaten just 2 1/4 lengths, by

G1 Hong Kong Cup rival Stacelita (Fr) (Monsun {Ger}) in the G1 Prix Jean Romanet this past August. The four-year-old filly had not been herself recently, but looks to have bounced back as

Sunday's race looms. "She did not show much lately, and we have taken her hood off to check out what she was up to," explained trainer Alain de Royer-Dupre. "It was reassuring. She usually works with that hood on because noise can easily get her started. She is now very well. In springtime, she was always bothered with ovarian problems and did not give her best. But at the moment, she is quite all right. The Cup is a big race, one of these very difficult International Group 1s, but my filly has got a good turn of foot and she will try to use it for the best."

A large and well-matched group meet the starter for Argentina's most important race. A total of nine Group 1 winners are in the field, topped by local hope Life of Victory, who annexed this event in 2008 and was runner-up last year. The eight-year-old is coming off a third-place effort in the course-and-distance G1 Gran Premio Copa de Oro Nov. 14. Xin Xu Lin carries the banner for Brazil, where he is a three-time Group 1 winner, most recently in the Grande Premio Derby Paulista at Cidade Jardim Nov. 6.

WRITERS UP

Marylanders Can't Expect, Demand Year-Round Racing
by Bill Finley

Now Magna Developments and Penn National, the companies that own Laurel and Pimlico, are proposing a 77-day racing schedule in 2011 at the Maryland tracks with racing shutting down after the Preakness. It remains to be seen how Maryland horsemen and the state's racing commission will react to the proposal, but they ought to not only accept it, they should be grateful that track owners are willing to give them as many racing dates as they are.

A lot of horse racing's problems can be solved by a drastic reduction in the number of races offered each year in this country. Racing doesn't work any more because the supply and the demand are terribly out of whack. It's actually very simple: there's way too much racing, and that's what's wrong with the game. More than enough money is bet each year to sustain the business, just not at its current levels. Cut out about half the racing dates we now have and you'd have tracks with full fields, huge purses and mammoth betting pools. You'd have tracks actually making money on racing and a racing product that paid for itself instead of living off handouts from slot machines. The sport, currently so troubled, would look awfully healthy.

But, with a few exceptions, horsemen don't want to hear it. They still want to grind out an endless stream of dates at places like Laurel and Pimlico, where a glut of racing has resulted in a terrible product that no one wants to bet on or watch. Cont. p6

The brisnet.com 'Race of the Day' is the GI Hollywood Starlet S. at Hollywood Park
For pps and a complete race analysis, click here.

This is a broken model. To race 146 dates in Maryland, as they will in 2010, doesn't work. No one could make money off that sort of schedule. You don't have to like Frank Stronach or the people at Penn National, but nobody should expect them to stick to the type of racing schedule that can only mean a deluge of red ink. Maryland Jockey Club officials have said they have lost between $4 million and $7 million a year over the last several years.

"A business that doesn't make a profit is not good for anybody," Stronach told the Baltimore Sun. "We're not talking about an enormous, but a reasonable return."

Stronach should have done a far better job dealing with the Maryland slots situation and never should have allowed a slots license to slip out of the tracks' hands and to a shopping mall. But it happened and there's no going back. Without slots, Laurel and Pimlico's only revenue streams are the racing products and the Preakness. The only way to make these tracks anything close to profitable is to cut back on the amount of days.

Stronach and Penn National originally proposed just 47 days of racing in 2011, and their schedule was immediately shot down by a Maryland Racing Commission that was a lot more sympathetic to the state's horsemen than the beleaguered track owners. Their rejection put the entire 2011 Maryland racing season and the Preakness in jeopardy.

Forty-seven days seemed pretty practical, but the track owners were forced to make a counter offer. By adding 30 days to their plan and ensuring that there will be a Preakness next year, they've not only come forth with something that will save the Preakness but give Maryland horsemen a reasonable amount of racing dates. They're being more than fair.

Should Maryland shut down after the Preakness, local trainers will still have somewhere to go. A circuit of Laurel, Pimlico, Delaware Park and Colonial Downs makes perfect sense. If those four tracks could coordinate their racing schedules so they don't overlap you'd have a terrific circuit with great racing, big fields and purses that are a lot bigger than they are now. It's something bettors would love and even the horsemen might be better off because of what would be sizeable purse increases at all four tracks. The game would be better off.

But that's not the way horsemen look at it. They love to have lots of races available to them, particularly when there's going to be a lot of five-horse fields. It's a lot easier to make money that way. It's also a sure-fire recipe for killing the sport, and that's exactly what's happening.

It's time to stop looking short term and realize that this is a crisis situation. Things can't keep going the way they are because the status quo is burying this industry. The supply and demand has to get back in sync. If not, the sport is going to die. Sorry to be so dire, but there's no point in pretending that horse racing can keep going the way it is.

Seventy-seven days of racing in Maryland is actually too many, at least from a business standpoint. Those who may have a vested interest in a longer racing season need to understand that and need to start looking out for more than themselves. Take the 77. You're lucky to have it.

Maryland Tracks Seek 77 Racing Days in 2011; Stronach Aims to Save State's Racing:

The Baltimore Sun has reported that the owners of Laurel Park and Pimlico Race Course are expected to submit a proposed 2011 racing schedule to the Maryland Racing Commission for approval that includes 77 days of live racing concluding after the GI Preakness S. The Maryland Jockey Club's original proposal, which included just 47 race dates, was rejected by the state's racing commission last week, leaving the future of racing in Maryland--and the Preakness S.--up in the air. Frank Stronach, Chairman and CEO of the tracks' majority owner MI Developments, told the Baltimore Sun that he hoped the 77-day schedule would "give us a few months to work together in an open environment" in order to devise a profitable business model for racing in Maryland. "A business that doesn't make a profit is not good for anyone," explained Stronach. "We're not talking about an enormous, but a reasonable return." Stronach will meet with government officials, representatives of the tracks' minority owner Penn National Gaming and other individuals involved in the Thoroughbred industry next week to further discuss the proposed schedule and the viability of racing in Maryland. "I come there with a lot of good will," he continued. "I'm a major horse owner. I love racing. I'm a major breeder. I still feel if we work together, we should be able to come up with a formula where racing could be viable in Maryland."

MAN JAILED FOR ARSON ATTACK

Peter Brown was found guilty yesterday of manslaughter following the arson attack on a building which led to the deaths of two young jockeys last year. Brown, 37, had been refused entry to a party at a block of flats in the racing centre of Norton in North Yorkshire and duly started the fire which claimed the lives of apprentice riders Jamie Kyne, 18, and Jan Wilson, 19, in September 2009. He must serve at least seven and a half years in prison after being cleared of murder at Leeds Crown Court. Mrs Justice Nicola Davies said in her verdict, "As a result of your actions, two young people, aged 18 and 19, both of whom had embarked on promising careers in the field of horse racing, lost their lives."
