ways back in third. Kwahlah went favored in each of her first two career starts, finishing runner-up on debut at Salisbury Sept. 2 followed by a one-length graduation at Newmarket Sept. 17. Kwahlah completed a three-timer for Godolphin and trainer Saeed bin Suroor, who will look to York with the winner. "That has been a good evening and Khawlah is a filly we really like, and [we] will hopefully go for the [G3] Musidora S. [in May]. TWIRLING CANDY TO STAND AT LANE'S END

Lane's End and Martin Wygod have purchased an interest in Jenny Craig's Grade I winner Twirling Candy (Candy Ride {Arg}--House of Danzing, by Chester House), and the four-year-old will join his sire at the Versailles, Kentucky, nursery at the end of his racing career, it was revealed Thursday. The "TDN Rising Star" captured the GII Del Mar Derby on grass last summer, and set a track record when he scored in the GI Malibu S. on Santa Anita's dirt Dec. 26. In his most recent start, the dark bay was a facile winner in the GII Strub S. Feb. 5. He is slated to run in the GI Santa Anita H. Mar. 5.

"We look forward to his continued success on the race track and his next career as an exciting new addition to the Lane's End stallion roster," said Will Farish. The John Sadler-trained colt worked six furlongs on Santa Anita's main track Monday in 1:12. "He worked real well," said Sadler. "It was terrific. He'll have one more work, Sunday or Monday, depending on the weather, but he's doing super." The chestnut has compiled a 7-6-0-0 record and $579,900 in earnings to date.

SOLDAT READY FOR F-T FOY

Soldat (War Front) takes his first big step on the road to the Triple Crown with a start in Saturday's GII Fountain of Youth S. at Gulfstream. Winner of the GIII With Anticipation S. over the Saratoga lawn last September, the dark bay closed out the season with a pair of second-place finishes in the GIII Pilgrim S. and GII BC Juvenile Turf. In his seasonal debut, the sophomore rocketed to a 10 3/4-length winner in a nine-furlong allowance in the Gulfstream slop Jan. 21. "I like to run my horses every five weeks or so, so it's a perfect program down here," explained McLaughlin. "From where he won to this race is five weeks. From this race to the [GI] Florida Derby is five weeks [Apr. 3] and then it's five weeks out to the GI Kentucky Derby [May 7]. So it's a perfect program for us." With sunny skies scheduled for this weekend, Soldat will have the opportunity to run on a fast main track for the first time in his career. "He's run on dirt three times and has a first and two seconds, so he's doing well," said McLaughlin.

BETFAIR POTENTIAL MONMOUTH SUITOR

Betfair is among potential bidders for New Jersey's Monmouth Park, according to My Jersey Central. Betfair, the British-owned company that also owns Television Games Network, appears to be among those interested in the Jersey Shore oval. Other potential bidders include Morris Bailey and Jeff Seder, founder and CEO of Blow Horn Equity. Three weeks ago, New Jersey Governor Chris Christie requested proposals for the state-owned track, in addition to the rights to operate off-track wagering sites. It is expected that an RFP, a document outlining specific terms for a transaction, is expected to be released soon, Assemblyman John Burzichelli told the publication. "I've been trying since last October to get financial information, so I can bid intelligently," Seder told MJC. Leasing the track also remains a possibility. Both Monmouth Park and The Meadowlands in East Rutherford, New Jersey had been offered up by the state for lease in 2004, but the deal never went through since the Meadowlands was being considered for slot machines at the time. Currently, Christie has said he is against casino gambling outside of Atlantic City.

GULFSTREAM TO APPLY FOR YEAR-ROUND DATES

Gulfstream officials announced Thursday their intention to conduct racing all-year round at the Hallandale oval. The decision to apply for dates from July 1 through June, 30, 2012, would put it in direct competition with Calder, which planned to conduct a four-day race week and carry live racing from July 1 through January, 2012. "We have decided to run four days a week out of respect to the owners needs and to sustain healthy participation for our racing program throughout the summer and fall," Calder Vice President John Marshall told DRF. Stronach indicated a meeting had been set with Bill Carstanjen, chief operating officer of Churchill Downs Inc., Friday to discuss the potential dates conflict between the two tracks. Gulfstream's plan is to race on weekends, beginning July 1 until its regular meet opens Nov. 26. It will operate three days a week in December, have three or four live cards a week next January and race five days per week until the regular meet ends in early April 2012. "I have received phone calls from more than 25 trainers in just the past few hours asking about relocating and stabling here at Gulfstream," said Gulfstream Vice President of Racing Tim Ritvo. "Our preliminary plan is to run twice a week, but that will increase depending on the horse population. We want to level the playing field for horsemen so they can decide where to stable and where to race." Both Calder and Gulfstream have until midnight Monday to adjust their racing dates for the upcoming season.

This is one of my favorite restaurants in Palm Beach. They take Asian cuisine to a whole new level in a very sleek upscale venue. The sushi is unimaginably fresh (be sure to ask for plenty of the bluefin toro). For those that don't mind looking their dinner in the eye, I highly recommend the crispy whole red snapper, which is served standing up, and looks as though it might swim off the plate. Before your meal, they will ask if you would like to pre-order one of their souffles for dessert. Don't pass up this opportunity! No matter how much you've had for dinner, you won't want to miss this. In season, you're going to need a reservation, so call ahead.

RIGGINS CRAB HOUSE

This place is hands-down the best Maryland-style crab house in Florida! The last time I took Barry Weisbord there, he ate so many crabcakes, blue crabs and stone crabs, that we were worried he was going to founder. When you look around at all of the Baltimore area sports memorabilia decorating the place, it makes you nostalgic for a time long ago when Baltimore still had a major league baseball team. That may sound a little unfair, but I don't know how many times you can say, "well...maybe next year."

FIRST IN FLIGHT

By Steve Sherack

The Pegasus Training and Equine Rehabilitation Center packages Dr. Mark Dedomenico's lifelong passion for medical research and horse racing together in a world-class facility.

Dr. Mark Dedomenico

"Even if I was retired, this is what I'd still be doing," Dedomenico--who played a major role in developing coronary bypass surgery--commented from the Pegasus conference room, proudly decorated by the accomplishments of his recently crowned champion three-year-old filly Blind Luck (Pollard's Vision). "One hundred percent of my time is spent with my passions."

Situated on a jaw-dropping 100-acre parcel of land overlooking the snow-capped Cascade Mountains in Redmond, Washington, Dedomenico's $25-million brainchild boasts a hyperbaric oxygen chamber, an equine swimming pool, a five-eighths Polytrack training track, and much more (virtual tour). It's a long way from Kentucky, but you quickly get a taste of the Bluegrass from the 17 stunning buildings on the property, particularly the training barns, which were constructed off the blueprints from Allen Paulson's former Brookside Farms in Versailles. In addition to breaking, training, and rehabilitation services, the Pegasus Center--a scenic 30-minute drive from downtown Seattle and about 15 minutes from Microsoft's corporate headquarters--is also the site of four major equine research projects, with studies on knee injuries, osteoarthritis, plasma treatment and stem cells. Pegasus has been up and running since 2005.

"I did this because I wanted to do some research on osteoarthritis," the youthful 73-year-old continued during a recent 50-minute interview, as several horses stretched their legs with a walk on one of Pegasus' seven eurocisers adjacent to the office on a picturesque morning in the Northwest. "[Pegasus Consulting Surgeon & Director of the Orthopaedic Research Center at Colorado State University] Dr. [C. Wayne] McIlwraith and I became instant friends; we understand each other and both love our research."

He continued, "Lower knee injuries normally don't rehab well, but we think we've found a better way. We're about halfway through the experiment, and the results look very positive. Then, we decided that we'd start looking at platelet-rich plasma and stem cells for suspensory and tendon injuries. Dr. McIlwraith is here every two weeks and we spend at least one day and maybe even one evening until 2 a.m. going over the research."

Born in San Francisco and raised in the Seattle area, Dedomenico was introduced to the sport by his father Paskey Dedomenico, who created "the San Francisco Treat" Rice-A-Roni through his Golden Grain Macaroni empire. His old man sold him his first racehorse for a buck when he was 30 years old, and he has continued owning horses for the better part of four decades.

"I used to go to the races with my dad when I was 10 years old and stand at the rail," the cardiovascular specialist reflected of his days as a youngster at Longacres Racetrack. "He'd always bet one horse to win, one to place and one to show--he was doing a trifecta and didn't know it! He'd let me hold the show tickets. That's how my father and I had a relationship--it was with the horses."

Dedomenico partnered with his father to purchase a training center in Monroe, Washington, in 1970. Located about 20 minutes from Pegasus, Woods Creek Training Center is still owned and operated by his family. The property, which boasts a five-furlong dirt track, can hold an additional 120 horses.

“There were 19 owners who had just built this center, and they were all brothers and in-laws,” explained Dedomenico, who has a home on the Pegasus property overlooking the training track. “My dad wanted me to be his partner, but I was still doing surgery at the time. They were looking for $1.5 million and he decided to offer $700,000. He showed up at the hospital about 1 ½ hours after making the offer with a napkin with the sale of that farm on it and all 19 of their signatures. I think the napkin is still down at the lawyer’s office.”

Dedomenico’s admiration and appreciation for the folks behind the scene in racing was also inherited from his father, who campaigned 1987 GIII Longacres Derby hero Irish Bear.

“They’re beautiful animals, but there’s a lot of beautiful people in this business,” the St. Louis University Medical School graduate replied when asked what he loves about the “Sport of Kings.” “My father always loved the people. He always said that they are good-hearted, hard-working people, and he’s right. They’re not going to be millionaires, but they have a good life and they have their passion. And horses are my passion --I enjoy the horses.”

Time hasn’t slowed down the grandfather of nine one bit. Dedomenico continues to turn in 12-hour days five times a week studying research, both human and equine, at his headquarters located at his 55,000-member Pro Sports health club in the Seattle area, and enjoys spending his weekends on the farm. He also has a residence in Las Vegas.

“My biggest focus has always been the research,” Dedomenico said. “I’ve probably been involved in 20 major research studies, including one on [human] metabolic disorders, which is nearing a conclusion after 20 years. We’re finding the right way to take care of people without drugs, and that’s the key. We can’t have every person in this country on five medications.”

A Breath of Fresh Air...

Pegasus sports one of the few equine hyperbaric medicine centers in the country, which can be used to treat trauma, bone and soft tissue infections and slow-healing wounds and abscesses. Soft tissue injuries, respiratory conditions, exercise induced pulmonary bleeding, colic and gastric ulcers can also be effectively treated through a series of 45-minute sessions.

Mark Dedomenico Jr. in action at the Hyperbaric Oxygen Chamber

“We put them in the chamber and we dial it down 2 ½ atmospheres,” Pegasus Facility Maintenance Technician Mark Dedomenico Jr. explained while keeping a close eye on his patient via twin monitors. “That allows the oxygen to get in all the different areas of the body. Not just the white or red blood cells, but the plasma itself. With that extra pressure, you’re able to open up all the capillary buds. I can increase oxygen to 100 percent for an external wound. Internally, I’m increasing oxygen probably 10 fold. I’m able to stimulate the healing; I can reduce swelling because of the pressure. Oxygen itself is a drug. It kills off all the bacteria and infection. It could go inside a mare’s womb if she’s been cut up giving birth to a foal, too. We can heal it without scar tissue.”

Like his father, the 44-year-old’s passion for horses and their well-being quickly rises to the surface once engaged in conversation.

“They come in hurt and they go out looking good,” Dedomenico Jr. said as his face lit up with enthusiasm. “That’s the best feeling in the world for me. We’ve done thousands of treatments here, and you look back at the horses that we’ve cared for and what they’ve gone on to do. They go out of here and they got their head in the air and that sparkle in their eye. It’s really cool!”

He proudly continued, “It’s the cure-all. We haven’t had a horse come in here that didn’t leave in better shape than it came in. We’re just living the dream. You see them come in and your heart goes out to them.”

Pointing to his patient in the chamber, who had suffered a deep cut to a hind leg after kicking a bucket, he concluded, “I can already see my face when I see this guy going back to doing what he loves.”

Meet the Pegasus Team...

Mike Puhich, trainer/director of horse operations, oversees 140 head at the facility, which includes Thoroughbreds as well as show horses. With a focus on an individual approach, horses at Pegasus are put through an exclusive cross-training method.

Mike Puhich

“Whatever the horse needs, we’ll do,” Puhich said. “We’ll switch it up depending on the horse. I think the surface here is awesome. For the climate that we have, it’s amazing. It doesn’t change--over the summer we’ll water it and it stays consistent. That’s the main thing about tracks. The inconsistency is what injures a horse as much as anything.”

Puhich, who began training at Longacres in 1984, registered one of his biggest career victories when Al and Sandra Kirkwood’s Southern Africa (Cape Town) annexed the 2005 GIII Lone Star Derby. He also trained the Kirkwood’s Stolen Gold (Conquistador Cielo) to a win in the 1996 Precisionist S. at Hollywood, a second-place finish in the GI Hollywood Futurity and a third-place finish behind Pulpit (A.P. Indy) in the following term’s GII Blue Grass S. He gets equal satisfaction from the success of Pegasus’s clients.

“It’s just so cool to sit back and watch what they do at the races once they leave here, and get the feedback from the owners,” Puhich added with a big smile. “There’s no better feeling than when an owner or trainer calls up saying that you did a great job and thanks you and the entire crew. I don’t get 10 percent of the purse anymore, but I feel real good.”

Jason Orman, who saddled Rock Hard Ten to a second-place finish in the 2004 GI Preakness S. and a win in the GII Swaps Breeders’ Cup S., recently joined the team at Pegasus as rehabilitation manager.

“They’re doing a study on chips and lower knee joints; after seven to 10 days once the wounds heal [following surgery], they’ll start swimming to try and get a little circulation going,” Orman said of the rehabilitation process, while overlooking the 16 foot-deep equine swimming pool. “After 30 days, they’ll start going on the underwater treadmill. We also use it for horses to try and get them a little more fit without absorbing as much impact. It’s sort of like lower-impact aerobics. They’ll swim in here, go in the hyperbarics and also go on the eurociser. We’ll usually jog a lot of the horses, too, after the vet has given us the okay.”

Jason Orman

The well-traveled Orman also spent time as a trainer in Saudi Arabia, Singapore and Turkey.

“It’s pretty amazing here,” Orman concluded. “Anything you need is here. There aren’t too many facilities around the world that have a hyperbaric chamber, swimming pool, and all of these amenities all in one place.”

Pegasus Two-Year-Old Sale a Hit...

In an effort to help promote horseracing in the Northwest and bring new owners into the sport, Dedomenico joined forces with prominent Canadian owner Glen Todd to host last week’s inaugural Pegasus Two-Year-Olds in Training Sale.

“I think every business in this country is having their problems today and has to go out looking for new customers,” Dedomenico reiterated during a well-delivered toast at a cocktail and dinner party following last Monday’s breeze show. “We need to get the younger people involved--college and highschool kids, and people in their 20s and 30s. My God, if they can make car racing go--I could never figure out who’s in first, second or third--we should be able to make this go, shouldn’t we? We’ve got a great sport here. We just have to get it out there to the right people and quit talking negative about this sport.”

Todd, who has campaigned recent graded stakes winners Holy Nova (Pure Prize) and Sir Gallovic (Victory Gallop), is one of the biggest supporters of the Pegasus Center, keeping roughly 50 of his powerful 125-horse stable at the facility.

“The West Coast is really lacking horses right now,” Todd explained as Hall of Fame rider Gary Stevens made the rounds through the sales grounds prior to the auction. “So I went to Mark and said, ‘Let’s get some new blood and try to buy some good paper and good conformation, and bring them west. Let’s try to find some new people and bring some better pedigree to our part of the country.’ If we get some new people, that’s what it’s all about.”

Despite cool temperatures and rainy weather, the duo, accomplished their mission, as the well-attended sale exceeded expectations, with 17 of 19 juveniles finding new homes for a gross of $633,000 and an average of $37,235. A crowd of approximately 300, including a large contingent of California horsemen, made their presence felt at the one-day auction, which was held in Pegasus’ indoor Polytrack arena. Roughly 100 braved the rainy conditions at the breeze show.

“We were really after some new blood in this business,” Dedomenico commented. “I think it brought a lot of people to take a look for the first time and, maybe when the races open [in the Washington/Western Canada area], they’ll claim a $6,500 horse and get started. Maybe a syndicate is the best place for them to get started--something that’s already running and they can have immediate gratification.”

Pegasus Success...

Classy runners Secret Gypsy (Sea of Secrets) and Victor’s Cry (Street Cry {Ire}), part of a research study group at Pegasus, returned to the races on top of their game after undergoing surgery and the rehabilitation process at the facility. Trained by Eoin Harty, Victor’s Cry realized a career high when registering a 21-1 upset in last year’s GI Shoemaker Mile S. The Equilete Stable colorbearer also recorded a win in the GII Citation H. and a second-place finish in the GI Eddie Read H. since having a chip removed from his knee following a win in an $80,000 optional claimer at Hollywood during his sophomore season.

“He was part of that experimental procedure they did, and I wouldn’t hesitate to send another horse back here if I had the opportunity,” Harty said while enjoying some hors d’oeuvres during the aforementioned cocktail party at Dedomenico’s lavish Pegasus residence. “It’s as good as any facility that I’ve seen anywhere. The surface seemed just perfect when they were galloping over it at the breeze show. You have the hyperbaric chamber, swimming pool and the best vets in the world looking after your horses.”

Conditioner Ronny Werner was so pleased with Secret Gypsy’s condition following her stay at Pegasus, that he had her back in the entries only three days later. Campaigned by Richland Hills Stable and John Kuehl, Secret Gypsy enjoyed one of her best seasons as a five-year-old, reeling off three straight impressive decisions, including Saratoga’s GII Honorable Miss H. and Delaware’s GIII Endine S. She brought $540,000 from Shadai Farm as a broodmare prospect earlier this year at the Keeneland January Sale.

“She had surgery by Dr. McIlwraith--it was her second surgery on her bottom joints,” Werner explained shortly after arriving from his Fair Grounds base.

“Without them rehabbing her, she wouldn’t have made it back. She made it back quickly, too--they put her on the fast track back with the hyperbaric chamber and swimming pool, rehabbing her right away; just changing the format a lot from what’s the norm. They were actually swimming her as soon as they took the stitches out in two weeks.”

The affable horseman added, “Pegasus is second to none. I’ve never seen a facility quite like it. It’s just unbelievable.”

Dedomenico is very encouraged by the early results of a recent 24-horse study. The group was equally divided, with half receiving conventional treatment and the other dozen going through Pegasus’ rehab program.

“We used to say that if a horse had to get surgery he’d drop down in performance,” Dedomenico offered. “A lot of people would ask if [surgery] was worth it or not. The other thing was that the rehab process took so long. So we said, if we’re going to do it, we have to bring them back at the same level or give them a chance to be better.”

He continued, “What we’re finding on the research side is that the horses in the study have been moving up versus the ones that are in the standard care. We still have our fingers crossed. Victor’s Cry and Secret Gypsy were both in the research care. They’re getting back 60 to 90 days sooner--that’s the key. You can’t afford to keep them on the sidelines, not today, not in this economy.”

Two Thumbs Up from Horsemen...

There were plenty of familiar faces in town for the Pegasus sale, including Blind Luck’s leading trainer Jerry Hollendorfer, who signed three tickets for a total of $155,000.

“It’s a first-class facility, from the rehabilitation to the training barns and the race-track,” said Hollendorfer, who campaigns five-time Grade I heroine Blind Luck on behalf of Dedomenico and his partners. “Everything that Mark has done here has been first class. I’ve been around him a long time, and that’s the way he does everything.”

Hollendorfer has been very supportive of the center since it opened.

"I break all my two-year-olds here," Hollendorfer continued while taking a look at some of the juvenile prospects. "I broke [GISW] Hystericalady (Distorted Humor) here, and everybody else that I've done well with recently. I've been doing business up here for a long time. Blind Luck has never left the racetrack since we bought her, but if she did get a break, it would be here."

Kathy Walsh, who also trains for Dedomenico, echoed Hollendorfer's sentiments as some light rain fell prior to the sale.

"It's fabulous," the popular conditioner offered while taking cover under an umbrella. "It's unreal--people can't even appreciate what it's like here. I've been with [Dedomenico] since the start of it. They broke a lot of really nice horses for me, including [GI Del Mar Futurity hero] Georgie Boy (Tribal Rule). Mike Puhich has done a fantastic job. The babies come out of here just unbelievable. Guys were watching them on the racetrack the other day at Santa Anita and couldn't believe that they were just coming from the training center. My owners have been very pleased with the results."

Walsh, who currently has 25 horses in training in Southern California, is pleased with the Pegasus Polytrack surface as well.

"I think it's one of the better ones that I've been on," she said. "For the weather here, it's certainly the right product to have. They never miss a day of training. It's even and maintains itself great. Mr. Dedomenico installed it the right way."

Conditioner Bob Hess Jr., who selected and purchased subsequent GI Three Chimneys Hopeful S. hero Boys at Tosconova (Officer) for a bargain $35,000 at the 2009 Keeneland September Yearling sale, sent three youngsters to the center to be broken last fall.

"All the rumors were that it was state of the art and world class," Hess commented following the sale's conclusion. "I heard that for two years and finally decided to send a few yearlings last October. We have some West Coast clients that want to race at Del Mar this summer, so we sent them up here. It's my first time here and it's really amazing."

Hess placed the surface at Pegasus right there with Keeneland's Polytrack as the two best synthetics in the country.

"It's got great bounce, great life, and good banks to it," he said after walking the surface earlier in the day. "I think it's really kind to the horses. It's all about the people and the surface, and they have the right people and the right surface. Mike Puhich is a wonderful horse- man. I'm a fan of synthetic if it's done correctly, and I think they've done it correctly here. Everyone says that it's world class here, and it is."

The summer can't arrive quick enough for Hess.

"I checked my three horses out and they were all in great shape," he said of the recently turned two-year-olds. "We look forward to winning with them at Del Mar this summer."

Jeff Mullins was also in town from California for the auction.

"I've always wanted to come up and see the place and it's amazing," Mullins commented. "I saw all the rehab and the sports center, which is also amazing. It's a class operation--top notch. All the horses trained really well at the preview show. It looked like a really good surface."

Will we see another auction at Pegasus next year?

"I will do anything I can do to get people in this business," the sporting Dedomenico dead-panned.

Macbeth Fund Director Tony DeFranco Dies:

Edited Press Release

Tony DeFranco, the executive director and of the Don MacBeth Memorial Jockey Fund, died Friday, Feb. 18 in Woodland Hills, California after a long illness. He was 70. Since its formation in 1987, the MacBeth Fund has raised and distributed over $3 million to more than 2,500 injured jockeys and exercise riders. The organization was created by comedian Tim Conway and Judy McCarron. "Tony was the guy who fielded all the requests for assistance and he was also the guy who organized all our fund-raisers such as the Jockeys Across America event, the jockey dinner at the Pamplemousse Grille and the team penning competitions," said Chris McCarron, vice president of the MacBeth Fund. "He worked closely with thousands of jockeys and racetrack personnel through the years and he will be greatly missed. The sport of racing and more specifically jockeys, were much better off because of the work Tony did." DeFranco, a native of Patterson, New Jersey, spent most of his career as a BOCES administrator, however, had also dabbled in the acting profession with his good friend Conway before he was hired by the MacBeth Fund in 1987. DeFranco is survived by his wife Phyllis, son Anthony Jr and daughter Dana, as well as two grandchildren. A memorial Mass is planned for 11:00 on Saturday, Mar. 5 at St. Bernardine's Catholic Church in Woodland Hills, California. The family requests that in lieu of flowers, donations be made to:

Churchill & Komen For The Cure Renew Partnership:

Edited Press Release

Continuing a commitment to new Kentucky Oaks Day traditions established two years ago, Churchill Downs Racetrack and Susan G. Komen for the Cure, the world's largest breast cancer organization, have renewed their partnership to raise funds to aid in breast cancer awareness and research through events on Friday, May 6. The Oaks will once again feature a "Ladies First" theme and a day of events to raise money and awareness for Susan G. Komen for the Cure, which leads the global movement for breast cancer research, education, advocacy and community support. The event will be televised nationally on NBC Sports Group's VERSUS from 5-6 p.m. ET. For the third consecutive year, Churchill will donate $1 to Susan G. Komen for the Cure for every person in attendance on Kentucky Oaks Day, and the hope is to set an attendance record to raise maximum funds for a great cause. The goal was achieved last year when an unprecedented 116,046 were in attendance at Churchill Downs on Oaks Day. Additionally, Churchill will donate $1 to Horses and Hope, the breast cancer outreach and awareness initiative in Kentucky's horse racing industry, from the sale of Oaks Lilies, the official drink of the Kentucky Oaks. Horses and Hope was founded in 2008 by Kentucky First Lady Jane Beshear and the Kentucky Cancer Program to identify new opportunities to provide breast cancer awareness, education, and early detection through screening and treatment referral, as well as to raise funds to sustain programs into the future. "When someone in the world dies of breast cancer every 69 seconds, it's imperative that we fund critical research, spread awareness and educate women about breast health and breast cancer," said Nancy G. Brinker, founder and CEO of Susan G. Komen for the Cure. "As the first 'First Lady of the Oaks', I was very moved by the generosity and passion Oaks Day supporters have shown this cause. It's a fun day for a serious mission, and we're very appreciative to Churchill Downs for making it a reality again this year." Churchill Downs Incorporated President and Chief Executive Officer Robert L. Evans added, "We are so pleased and grateful that Kentucky Oaks fans and the Louisville community have embraced our 'Ladies First' campaign and partnership with Susan G. Komen for the Cure. Our guests put on their pink apparel and turned out in record numbers to enjoy the Oaks last year, with Kentucky Oaks 136 being the second-highest attended racing event in the country, generating the eighth largest handle for a U.S. racing event in 2010. No other city of this size could support the growing Oaks event and the important causes tied to it the way our hometown of Louisville does.

GOMEZ HONORED WITH WOOLF AWARD

Edited Press Release By a vote of his peers nationwide, jockey Garrett Gomez, a two-time Eclipse Award winner--who was North America's leading rider by money-won in 2006, '07,'08 and '09--will become the 62nd recipient of the Santa Anita George Woolf Memorial Jockey Award in a winner's circle ceremony at Santa Anita Mar. 20. Gomez outpolled fellow jockeys Joe Bravo, Javier Castellano, Corey Lanerie and Gallyn Mitchell. At the 2010 Breeders' Cup, Gomez took the Classic aboard Blame, while fighting off the late charge of the great Zenyatta by mere inches. Although he sustained a shoulder injury as a result of a spill at Churchill Downs the Thursday before the race, Gomez rebounded to not only win the Classic two days later. He also won the Juvenile Fillies Turf aboard More than Real and the Juvenile Turf aboard Pluck.

"It's heartwarming to me to see that his peers have acknowledged not only his tremendous professional success, but his triumph over the issues he's dealt with in his personal life as well," said Gomez's agent Ron Anderson. "He's just an American success story. He and his family have been through a lot and Garrett has been very upfront in dealing with all of this. Garrett has come a long, long way personally and professionally, and for him to be able to join the fraternity of Woolf Award winners at this stage of his career, it's got to be one of the crowning achievements in his life."

 Diamond Geezah, third behind Europe's star juvenile Frankel (GB), filled the same spot in his U.S. debut over this course and trip Jan. 13. Settled in this early, the bay slipped in along the inside to take command, opened up at the head of the stretch and held on late for the narrow score. "It feels great," said sports radio star and co-owner Jim Rome, whose Jungle Racing owns the winner in partnership with Dr. Dan Capen. "It's been a long time since I've been in the winner's circle and now that I'm here it feels good."

Stretching out in this second try, the even-money favorite settled into a stalking fourth behind fractions of :22.11, :46.78 and 1:11.70. The strapping dark bay rallied four wide into the stretch and powered clear under a motionless Garrett Gomez to best Unex Dali (GB) (Dubawi {Ire}) by 2 1/2 lengths. 2011 Online Fact Book and State Fact Books:

Edited press release

The Jockey Club has published the 2011 editions of the Online Fact Book and state fact books within the Publications & Resources section of its website at www.jockeyclub.com. The Online Fact Book is a statistical and informational guide to Thoroughbred breeding, racing and auction sales in North America and includes some state and provincial analysis. The state fact books provide detailed breeding, racing and auction sales information specific to each of 34 states and Canadian provinces. "We produce the Online Fact Book as a service to the industry and as a way to benchmark trends in the Thoroughbred industry, both domestically and internationally," said James L. Gagliano, president and chief operating officer of The Jockey Club. "In a similar vein, the state fact books provide valuable insight into trends at the state and province level that can be used to assist state and provincial Thoroughbred industries with education and lobbying efforts." The Online Fact Book and state fact books are updated monthly.

TRF Launches Annual Hay Drive

The Thoroughbred Retirement Foundation has launched its annual hay drive, where donors may "buy" a bale of hay via text. Text 20222, and a $5 contribution to the TRF will be added to the donor's mobile phone bill. Every $5 donated sponsors a bale of hay for the 1,200 TRF retirees across the nation. The largest equine sanctuary of its kind, the TRF currently cares for over 1,200 former racehorses, and feeds 600 bales of hay daily. Donors may also visit

RCI Meeting Scheduled for Mar. 25:

Edited Press Release

A Stewards Advisory Committee forum will take place at the RCI Annual Conference in New Orleans Mar. 25. The forum has been designed to enhance the understanding of the thought process that goes into "judgment calls" by Stewards. "We are very pleased to partner in this effort with the Racing Officials Accreditation Program [ROAP] and believe that the public is best served by regulators who are thoroughly familiar with all issues that enter into the decisions made in the Stewards stand," said RCI President Ed Martin.

The session, which begins at 10:30 a.m., will be held at the La Pavillon Hotel, located at 833 Poydras Street, New Orleans, LA. The event will be coordinated by Frank Lamb, former Executive Director of the Wyoming Pari-Mutuel Commission; Eddie Arroyo, Senior State Steward for the Illinois Racing Board; and Larry Munster, the Assistant Executive Director of the Louisiana State Racing Commission. "Our accredited Stewards are an essential strength of the racing regulatory system and RCI, as an active participant and supporter or ROAP, works to ensure that Commissions have the tools they need to assess performance and ensure that the proper calls are being made," Martin noted. The Stewards Advisory Committee functions as a joint committee of both the RCI and ROAP and identifies issues of common concern and also provides a forum for Stewards to discuss how to ensure that integrity concerns are addressed and proper safeguards to protect the fans are in place. In addition, ROAP Chair Stan Bowker will lead an education seminar for regulators Wednesday afternoon focusing on the role of various track-level officials as well as accreditation standards.

CHARLIE'S MOMENT (g, 5, Indian Charlie--Moment of Light, by Bold Revenue), a $17,000 KEESEP yearling, displayed excellent all-weather form while racing for a partnership including trainer Walther Solis in the U.S., taking the King Glorious H. at Golden Gate Fields in 2009 before wiring the Gill Laz Barrera Memorial S. that May. Sidelined over 18 months thereafter, he set a scorching pace in a Keeneland allowance last Oct. 30 before giving way to finish fourth in his first start in Godolphin royal blue. Showing solid comeback pace here for jockey Mickael Barzalona, Charlie's Moment held the fence while tracking the early pace from second. He went forward to claim the lead passing the three-furlong pole, responded when asked and was always holding stable companion Global City (Ire) (Exceed and Excel {Aus}), scoring by a length. MUFARRH (IRE) (g, 4, Marju {Ire}--What a Picture {Fr}, by Peintre Celebre) was a maiden winner and once third in seven tries on turf, but seems a new sort on the all-weather. The bay came from midpack to take a Feb. 5 handicap by a neck going a mile and gave another good account of himself over that same trip Feb. 17, going down by a length in third. Drawn way out in 14 while trying this extended distance for the first time, it looked like he could be as many as six paths wide out of the stretch, but he came back to Richard Hills and secured a spot three wide with cover and in touch. He was able to get down a bit more towards the fence and drafted in behind a rival in fourth as the stretch loomed. Shown daylight, Mufarrh accelerated at once and left the field behind, galloping home 4 1/2 lengths clear of Sahara Kingdom (Ire) (Cozzene). The winner, who holds entries for four World Cup night events, is a half to Partner Shift (Ire) (Night Shift), SW-Fr, $104,078. Sales history: 85,000gns wnlg '07 TATDEC; 170,000gns yrl '08 TATOCT. Joshua Tree, last year's GI Canadian International S. hero, in all likelihood earned a trip to Dubai for the G1 Sheema Classic Mar. 26 with a front-running tally in Qatar's most prestigious race. Previously trained by Aidan O'Brien, Joshua Tree was a midpack 10th in the G1 Japan Cup Nov. 28 before being sold to local interests. He was officially still under O'Brien's care when fourth to Beethoven in the Heir Apparent Cup Jan. 27, but was expected to come on for that run. Jockey Adrie de Vries was forced to call an audible and sent his mount to the head of affairs when his intended pacemaker did not break well.

He kicked away in the stretch for an easy victory. "Joshua Tree had been doing well in the workouts," commented de Vries. "I had a lot of confidence in him and he proved it today. I did not have pacemaker, and so took Joshua Tree to the front. I knew that Joshua Tree could do it from the front as well, and he proved me right as he kept on going." The victory was worth the equivalent of just over $78,000.
