MORE RAINFALL AT MEYDAN

Sheikh Hamdan bin Rashid al Maktoum's Soft Falling Rain (SAf) (National Assembly) looks to maintain his undefeated mark as he faces seven fellow sophomores in the G3 UAE 2000 Guineas, one of three Group 3 tests tonight at Meydan. Purchased for just R350,000 at the Cape Premier Yearling Sale in 2011, the bay rattled off four wins in as many starts at home, capped by a 4 1/2-length thrashing of the field in the G1 South African Nursery S. last April. He switched to the Tapeta for a Jan. 17 trial for this event, was quickly in front and kicked away when asked by Paul Hanagan to score by 2 1/2 lengths. The trial marked the colt's first trip longer than six furlongs, but he handled it with aplomb, and his conditioner isn't overly worried about today's distance. "He had a few questions to answer," explained Mike de Kock. "He has a lot of natural speed, and there was a slight concern 1400 meters might be a bit far, but he stayed well enough. Again, the extra 200 meters has to be a concern, but my gut feeling is he will stay and he is certainly a lot fitter than he was three weeks ago." Godolphin's "TDN Rising Star" Fortify (Distorted Humor) kept company with some of this country's best juveniles last season, following a good-looking maiden score Aug. 4 with a runner-up effort to Shanghai Bobby (Harlan's Holiday) in the GII Hopeful S. Sept. 3 and a third in the GI Champagne S. Oct. 6. The homebred makes his first start since running fourth in the GI Breeders' Cup Juvenile Nov. 3 and first on Tapeta, but he did train well over the synthetic surface at Greentree last fall. Glass Office (GB) (Verglas {Ire}) took his first two starts on the all-weather last season, including the G3 Sirenia S. Sept. 8, and can improve off a fifth to Soft Falling Rain last time out.

Soft Falling Rain DRC/Andrew Watkins

CAVIAR SET FOR RETURN

Some 238 days will have passed since undefeated Black Caviar (Aus) (Bel Esprit {Aus}) last faced the starter in the G1 Diamond Jubilee S. at Royal Ascot. But, after carefully considering whether to retire the mare after she suffered torn muscles in her narrow victory last June 23, the 6-year-old makes her much-anticipated return to the races in Saturday's G1 Lightning S., a race she has won the past two seasons and which is now named in her honor. She is the prohibitive 1-20 favorite to make it 23 straight, and jockey Glen Boss, who rides the 3-year-old Shamexpress (NZ) (O'Reilly {NZ}), summed it all up. "I think he's a good chance to run in the first three...well, second or third," he told AAP. Lightning S. field p4

revealing him to be that rare individual

Group 3 Triple at Meydan

In addition to the G3 UAE 2000 Guineas, Meydan also plays host to the G3 Firebreak S. and G3 Al Shindagha Sprint. Barbecue Eddie (Stormy Atlantic), in arguably career form at age nine, looks to successfully follow-up on his last-out victory in the G3 Al Maktoum Challenge-R1, but he'll have to deal with U.S. Grade III winner Out of Bounds (Discreet Cat), who was an excellent runner-up first-up that evening. Krypton Factor (GB) (Kyllachy {GB}) went this close to winning the Al Shindagha in 2012, but went on to take the G1 Dubai Golden Shaheen two starts later. He faces a rematch here with Hitchens (GB) (Acclamation {GB}) and Aussie G1 winner Mental (Aus) (Lonhro {Aus}).

EDDIE LOOKS TO SIZZLE IN FIREBREAK

Still going strong at the age of nine, Barbecue Eddie (Stormy Atlantic) goes in search of a fifth straight victory in tonight's G3 Firebreak S. at Meydan. The former Brian Koriner trainee has won seven of his 16 appearances over this Tapeta track and has taken three in a row going this course and distance. A half-length winner of a pre-Carnival conditions test Dec. 6, the Maryland-bred exits a 1 1/2-length victory over Out of Bounds (Discreet Cat) in Round 1 of the G3 Maktoum Challenge Jan. 10. The latter was an up-and-coming 3-year-old of 2012 while under the care of Eoin Harty, winning two of his three starts, including the Gill Sham S. Off 368 days thereafter, the homebred son of MGISW Unbridled Elaine (Unbridled's Song) showed good return speed and held well until weakening slightly in the final furlong last time. Daddy Long Legs (Scat Daddy) made a big splash in his one-and-only appearance to date at Meydan, taking last year's G2 UAE Derby for trainer Aidan O'Brien. He makes his first start for Mike de Kock here, having acted as a rabbit of sorts when last of six in the G1 Irish Champion S. Sept. 8. Elderly Paradise (Aus) (Danewin {Aus}) has represented Macau nicely at the Carnival, with a handicap second behind Capital Attraction (Speightstown) Jan. 17 ahead of a victory when stretched to 2000 meters Jan. 24.

Barbecue Eddie DRC/Andrew Watkins

KRYPTON FACTOR BACK FOR AL SHINDAGHA

Last seen finishing sixth, beaten two lengths behind Black Caviar (Aus) (Bel Esprit {Aus}) in the G1 Diamond Jubilee S. June 23, Krypton Factor (GB) (Kyllachy {GB}) returns to the scene of his finest hours for tonight's G3 Al Shindagha Sprint S. Beaten a nose when runner-up to Hitchens (Ire) (Acclamation {GB}) 12 months ago, the dark bay turned the tables on that rival in the G3 Mahab al Shimaal S. Mar. 10 and defeated Rocket Man (Aus) (Viscount {Aus}) by a decisive 2 1/4 lengths in the G1 Dubai Golden Shaheen three weeks later. He was unplaced in the G1 KrisFlyer International Sprint in May prior to his effort at Royal Ascot. Mental (Aus) (Lonhro {Aus}) may not be in the same league as Black Caviar, but is an accomplished sprinter at home. Runner-up in the G1 Manikato S. Oct. 26, he scored a breakthrough victory in the G1 Patinack Farm Classic at Flemington Nov. 10 and makes his first start since.

Triple Threats

Officer Alex Looking to Rebound in Southwest...

Winning Horses Stable and Choctaw Racing's Officer Alex (Officer), undefeated in two starts in Pennsylvania-bred company, but never a factor in two tries against open rivals, will look to right the ship in Monday's GIII Southwest S. at Oaklawn Park. A debut winner by nearly eight lengths at Parx Sept. 8, the bay colt added the Pennsylvania Nursery S. Dec. 8, but is looking to make amends for a sixth in the Smarty Jones S. Jan. 21, in which he encountered plenty of traffic and endured a shoe problem. Trainer Lynn Whiting is willing to forgive the effort. "I'm fairly confident when you think about all that didn't go his way in the Smarty Jones," said Whiting on Wednesday. "With as many problems as he encountered, I think he made a really good account of himself." Luis Quinonez will replace Stewart Elliott in the irons. Triple Threats cont. p7

Borel Hoping for Weekend Return...

Jockey Calvin Borel, who fractured his wrist just a few days prior to the opening of Oaklawn Park Jan. 11, has returned to exercising horses in the morning and is hopeful he can return to the saddle as soon as this Saturday. "Calvin got on horses this morning and says his wrist feels good," said his wife Lisa Borel. "There isn't any swelling. We'll see how it is in the morning, but his plan right now is to ride a few horses Saturday and Sunday and get back to riding fully the following week." Borel, who is one win shy of 5000 for his career, is currently being represented by Doc Danner while his regular agent, Jerry Hissam, is recovering from an illness.

Officer Alex is expected to face a stiff challenge in the form of California raider Super Ninety Nine (Pulpit). Owned by the Tanma Corporation, the chestnut is trained by Bob Baffert, who has won six of the last nine 3-year-old route stakes at Oaklawn and swept the entire series in 2012. Super Ninety Nine turned in his final Southwest work Tuesday at Santa Anita, going a half-mile in :47 3/5. "He worked well," said Baffert. "It's the time of year when we start separating them to gauge how the California ones stack up and how they're shipping." Super Ninety Nine is expected in Hot Springs today.

FASIG-TIPTON's BAYNE WELKER & BOYD BROWNING, JR.

A few days before a hugely successful renewal of its Kentucky Winter Mixed Sale this past Monday, Fasig-Tipton announced it is adding a new auction for 2013: a Summer Horses-of-Racing-Age Sale, to be held immediately after Fasig's July Yearling Sale. This year, the sales will be held on Monday, July 15.

The purpose of the new auction is to allow sellers an avenue to market and sell prospects in mid-summer at public auction, rather than either selling them privately or waiting until the fall mixed sales.

Fasig-Tipton has always done well with horses of racing age at its November Sale, and in recent months and years, selling in-form prospects at auction has become an increasingly attractive prospect for owners. Joe Appelbaum and Carlos Morales's Off the Hook recently scored with a pair of young racing prospects with limited starts, selling the then 2-year-old colt Moro Tap (Tapit) for a session-topping $350,000 at Keeneland November, then topping the OBS Winter Mixed Sale with Falling Sky (Lion Heart), who after bringing $425,000, won the Gill Sam F. Davis S. in his very next start.

Similarly, Dolphus Morrison sold the impressive maiden winner Flashy Gray (Flashy Bull) for $775,000 at Keeneland November. The filly returned last weekend to romp in her 3-year-old bow, a Gulfstream optional claimer, earning ☆ "TDN Rising Star" ☆ status in the process.

In addition, operations like WinStar and Darley have embraced selling horses of racing age in recent years. The graded performer Funny Sunny (Sharp Humor), for instance, was a $380,000 horse-in-training at WinStar's 2010 draft at Keeneland November.

On Wednesday, the TDN's Lucas Marquardt sat down the Fasig-Tipton President and CEO Boyd Browning, Jr. and Vice President of Sales Bayne Welker to talk about the new event. Cont. p8

First off, how and why did Fasig-Tipton decide to pull the trigger on a new Horses-of-Racing-Age Sale?

Welker: The sale has been a ball that's been in the air for some time now. It was an issue of logistics: when and where on the calendar do you put it that it doesn't hurt another sale you're holding. In terms of why, you're starting to see more people take advantage of the protections you get at public auctions, and the ability to get more people involved in the buying process. You're seeing people like WinStar, people like Off the Hook, the filly of Dolphus Morrison's that was sold in November that just won back. Everybody wants a racehorse that shows good form and is ready to step into a stall. Is there a huge market opportunity? We're unsure. But is there opportunity there in a structured way? We're pretty confident there is, and we used a date on the calendar where we feel one sale can complement another.

Browning: I think one thing we keep seeing in our business is that people are seeking opportunities to transact business. There are certain horses that don't have an endless "shelf life"--there's a time and a place to sell them. The fall has been very effective for certain types of horses, but if you have a 3-year-old winner in May who's a very solid horse, and you want to liquidate that horse, how does a man or woman go about selling? There's currently no mechanism in place to sell that horse [at public auction] until six months later. There's an urgency on both the buy and sell side of things, and I think this sale addresses that urgency. Cont. p9

In addition to having buyers already in town for the yearling sale, why is it a good time for a sale like this?

Welker: Everybody has different needs--you and I might shop a totally different places for our groceries, clothing, whatever, so as far as a racing stable, a horse that doesn't work in one program might be someone else's gold. If you have an operation trying to make stallions or top broodmares, a middle-of-the-road horse might not fit in your plans, and it's another $20,000 to carry that horse into the fall, based on training costs, where these horses would typically sell.

You've said that you plan to make full use of the technology at hand to promote horses online: publishing up-to-date race records, race videos, workout information, etc.

Welker: There's no question that technology has created a platform to have a sale like this. There are still people today who won't get on a computer, but everybody has access to one. Current technologies allow us to take a horse into the catalog almost a week out, still have links to races, still have links to works, and to still have a traditional catalog for people to pick up on the sales grounds for people to carry around and make notes in.

Browning: A perfect example happened [Monday]. We had a horse bring $625,000 [Golden Mystery] who spent less than four hours on the sales grounds. People were familiar with her, had watched her races, and were prepared to do a quick physical inspection. And with photos and virtual inspection videos, there are ways to get a physical description of horses before they even arrive on the sales grounds.

What has the response been so far?

Welker: Both from the buying bench and the selling bench, the response has been overwhelmingly positive--probably more than anticipated at this early stage.

Do you have a target number of horses for the sale?

Browning: We really don't. The target is to make sure we have a credible, good group of horses in Year 1. The quality is more important to us than the quantity. There's going to be a screening process in place, so it's not going to be that we accept anything that just comes down the road. Of course, not every horse is going to bring $500,000, but we don't want horses that are out of training and at the bottom end of the racing ranks.

The sale falls not long after the last juvenile-in-training sale. Are you expecting any unraced juveniles?

Browning: What it's not going to be is a late 2-year-old-in-training sale. The point of emphasis is going to be horses in training, the vast majority of which will be male, and the vast majority of which will be 3, 4, 5, and have previous racing performance.

Welker: One thing we do know is that you're going to have 2-year-olds that have broken their maidens at Keeneland, and who won't really have any other place to go. There's only 'x' number of races for them, and it's hard to even find a stakes for them until the late spring or summer. Those are the kinds someone might want a little liquidity on. And there might be a few with a steady stream of good works who might be marketable. But, without being disparaging, it's not exactly what we're trying to create. We don't want a bunch of horses that have been loping around a field for 60 days that are just out there at the end of a shank.

For buyers and sellers, what are some of the advantages of a sale like this?

Browning: For sellers, the great thing about the auction process is that you don't have to worry about things like getting a horse's title, about getting paid, about which veterinarian did the vet work. It's a very open process, and all the logistics and paperwork are handled by us. It reduces a lot of those details.

Welker: The beauty of the auction process has always been the security you're afforded. You can do your due diligence--you have time to inspect the horse, do whatever type of veterinary research you want to do, and then make up your mind. Also, at this sale, there will be horses coming off big wins with big figures, and some of those will bring big prices. But then there will be more middle-of-the-road horses that will fit different circuits and different programs, and will go on to be very useful horses. Take high-priced claimers, for instance. A lot of times in the claiming game, you're stuck at the racetrack from which you claimed. But if you buy a horse through the auction process, you're not in 'jail' and can take that horse to whichever racing jurisdiction you'd like, and put that horse to work for you right away.

What is Fasig's game plan between now and the sale, as far as recruitment and promotion?

Browning: We always approached a sale from two directions. First is horse recruitment, the second is buyer recruitment. We've chatted with a lot of people already--owners, trainers, agents--and it's gotten their attention, and we will continue that dialog. There won't be any magic recipe--it will just be a lot of one-on-one communication with potential customers.

Letters
TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

I wanted to express my appreciation for the work of breeding-pedigree expert Bill Oppenheim. I read his work like a hungry man carving a turkey on Thanksgiving. Tons of facts and figures to dig into which help me make wiser breeding decisions. Really no one in the business is providing such analysis.

I also wanted to give kudos to TDN itself, because for several years I read the electronic version of the now defunct Thoro-Times. I never read TDN, thinking it was a duplication of effort.

Honestly, there is no comparison. Each morning, I get accurate details on everything taking place covering the entire world of horse racing. I also know that if I advertise, thousands of decision makers are there to be influenced. I cheerfully might add that I cannot believe that this service is for free. Am I dreaming?

Regards,
Michael Bronzino

Cornell, NYRA Begin Search for Medical Director:

Edited Press Release

The Cornell University College of Veterinary Medicine and The New York Racing Association Inc. (NYRA) announced today the formation of a search committee for Equine Veterinary Medical Director (EVMD), a position that will be established outside of NYRA reporting to the Cornell University College of Veterinary Medicine.

In keeping with a key recommendation of the New York Task Force on Racehorse Health and Safety, the NYRA Reorganization Board established the new position as a major element in its efforts to renew and reform horse racing in New York, an economic engine in the state that employs thousands, generates millions of dollars for the state and local communities, and continues a tradition that began more than 150 years ago.

The EVMD will oversee equine medication and health issues at NYRA tracks and recommend strategies to the NYRA Reorganization Board to enhance the health and safety of horses and jockeys and ensure the highest ethical standards in New York racing. The new position will chair the newly established Equine Safety Review Board and work hand in hand with the Equine Safety Committee of the NYRA Reorganization Board to ensure that all safety issues are addressed.

The members of the search committee, who will conduct an international search for the EVMD, are:

- Michael Kotlikoff - Dean, Cornell College of Veterinary Medicine, Chair
- Anthony Bonomo - NYRA board member
- C. Steven Duncker - NYRA board member
- Mary Scollay Ward - Kentucky Equine Medical Director
- Lisa Fortier - Associate Professor, Cornell University
- Thomas Divers - Professor, Cornell University
- Terry Finley - West Point Thoroughbreds
- Ken McPeek - McPeek Racing
- Jerry Bilinski - Waldorf Farms

Appointed by Governor Andrew Cuomo, the NYRA Reorganization Board is a three-year, publicly controlled governing body charged with transforming the management of thoroughbred racing in New York State. Upon completion of its work, the 17-member Reorganization Board will return control of the revitalized NYRA to the private sector.

INDUSTRY INFO

TRF Launches Fifth Annual Haydrive:

Officials at the Thoroughbred Retirement Foundation (TRF) have announced their fifth annual "haydrive" in an effort to raise money to help defray hay costs for its 950 retired racehorses. Because of record drought conditions, the TRF projects its hay budget to be 50% greater than last year, and it aims to raise $144,000 prior to May 31.

"Our biggest farm cares for 200 Thoroughbreds and has been forced to purchase hay from up to 700 miles away," explains TRF Herd Manager Sara Davenport. "Transportation costs for hay are continuing to rise as winter progresses, making this campaign especially crucial."

Added Lisa Craig, the TRF's annual fund director, "Whether a donor can contribute enough for a single bale or a wagonload, 100% of it is literally going straight into the horses' mouths. Just $10 will buy a bale and feed one of our horses for two or three days, so there's no such thing as a contribution that's too small."

To learn more or make a donation, visit www.trfinc.org/haydrive or call (518) 226-0028.

HUMANE SOCIETY CALLS FOR BAN ON HORSEMEAT

Edited Press Release

In response to news reports that up to 100% horsemeat has been found in Findus beef products marketed in France, Sweden and the United Kingdom, Humane Society International is calling on European Union officials to immediately ban the sale of horsemeat coming from North America.

"It is alarming to learn that European consumers may have fallen victim to large-scale food fraud, unwittingly consuming horsemeat products incorrectly labelled as beef," said Jo Swabe Ph.D., HSI European Union director. "Consumer alarm is understandable as many people would ordinarily avoid eating horse flesh. Humane Society International calls on officials to acknowledge the potential risk to public health and safety, as this horsemeat could have originated from anywhere in the world, including from North America, and to immediately ban its sale from North America."
