SIGN GETS HER POCAHONTAS WIN BACK

The disqualification and purse redistribution originally ordered for Claiborne Farm and Adele Dilschneider's Sign (Pulpit)'s victory in the 2012 GII Pocahontas S. at Churchill have been rescinded, the Kentucky Horse Racing Commission announced yesterday. "In the process of amending the regulation, however, certain technical revisions in the process resulted in a misapplication of the regulation," KHRC Executive Director John T. Ward said. "The Commission believes the disqualification and redistribution of the purse is discretionary rather than mandatory under this regulation." The settlement agreement includes an admission of responsibility by trainer Al Stall Jr. for two Class C medication violations involving overages of methocarbamol, including in Sign's aforementioned Pocahontas tally and Upon Reflection (Bernstein)'s victory in a maiden claimer beneath the Twin Spires last November. Stall accepted fines of $500 and $1,000 for the two infractions.

"Kentucky has been and remains a leader in promoting integrity in horse racing," KHRC Chair Robert M. Beck Jr. added. "Our stewards and staff work diligently every day to protect the health, safety and welfare of all participants in horse racing to ensure that Kentucky racing is among the best in the world."

SHEIKH JOAAN BUYS TREVE

Sheikh Joaan al Thani has purchased the unbeaten G1 Prix de Diane heroine Treve (Fr) (Motivator {GB}), it was announced yesterday. Haras du Quesnay's homebred, who this week was pencilled in by trainer Criquelette Head-Maarek to return to action in the G1 Qatar Prix Vermeille at Longchamp Sept. 15, will remain under her care. "We are delighted with the latest addition to our string of racehorses, and we hope that the unbeaten filly will carry on with her success in the colours of Sheikh Joaan Bin Hamad Al Thani," spokeswoman Sian Jones told the Racing Post. "With previous purchases we have kept the horse with the original trainer and, as she's unbeaten, there's no reason to make a change with Treve."

HARMONIZING MOMENTS by Christina Bossinakis

In the span of one week, Yvonne Schwabe enjoyed a run of success that most small breeders only dream about. With just a modest-sized broodmare band boarded at her Persley Den Farms, Schwabe reached the pinnacle for most Canadian breeders when Midnight Aria (Midnight Lute--Shebandowana, by Mt. Magazine), a colt bred by Schwabe, landed the historic Queen's Plate at Woodbine July 7.

Shebandowana, dam of Midnight Aria, & Yvonne Schwabe

"I'm beyond excited," said Schwabe. "I've decided I'm just going to stay up on this little cloud I'm on."

Third in both the May 5 Wando S. and Plate Trial S. against fellow Canadian breds June 9, Midnight Aria--sent off at generous odds of 16-1--stole the show on the front end over the rain-soaked main track when registering a half-length victory from favored Up With the Birds (Stormy Atlantic). The colt is campaigned by Tucci Stables and trained by Nick Gonzalez. Cont. p3

Only one week removed from her biggest victory as a breeder, Schwabe was back in the headlines, this time with a homebred runner named Surtsey (Heatseeker {Ire}), who strolled home a 2 1/4-length in the restricted Ontario Damsel S.

"She ran awesome, I was blown away," said Schwabe. "It was way more than I expected."

Victorious in last fall's province-bred Fanfreluche S. on the Polytrack, Surtsey finished sixth in her 2013 debut in a six-furlong main track test against optional claiming company June 15. Let go at 41-1 for her turf and route debut in the Ontario Damsel, the Kevin Attard trainee showed signs in the mornings that the surface switch wouldn't be a problem, but the added distance remained a question.

"We had breezed her on the grass and we knew that she liked it, but I didn't know if she was quite ready for the distance," admitted Schwabe. "Kevin had her in perfect order and she blew the doors off."

Surtsey, currently the only horse in training entirely owned by Schwabe, is expected to return to stakes action in the near future.

"She came out of her race really well and we will probably look to finding another race against 3-year-old fillies on the turf," confirmed Schwabe. "One option is the Wonder Where S. [at Woodbine Aug. 4] or the [GI] Ontario Colleen S. [Aug. 17]. If she continues to train forwardly, she'll go to one of those two."

Family Legacy...

A lifelong horsewoman, Schwabe was introduced to the business by her father Carl Schwabe, a criminal defense lawyer; and her mother Dagmar, both German immigrants, who were exposed to horse racing in their native country by Schwabe's grandmother, a pioneer jockey. Schwabe's grandfather was a trainer. Schwabe said her parents fell on hard times following the war, so they emigrated to Canada with 'only $200 in their pocket.'

"They bought a sheep farm [in 1961] from an old, Scottish farmer and he had always wanted to call the farm Persley Den, so my dad said 'Ok, let's name it that,' and he painted the name on the front of barn and that's how the farm got its name," explained Schwabe. "My father was a very generous man."

Recounting her family's introduction into Canadian racing, Schwabe said, "My father went to an auction one day just to check it out [in the mid 60's], put his hand up and bought his first yearling. He literally had to race back home and build a couple of stalls in an old tractor shed. That's how my parents became involved in horse racing in this country."

Located in Acton, Ontario, the 200-acre tract of land has grown to 40 stalls and a couple of run-in sheds

"After my father passed away in 1995, I got much more serious about the sport," said Schwabe.

Persley Den, which can swell to about 50 during the winter season, currently boards 25 broodmares, nine of those owned by Schwabe. With only two horses--including Surtsey--on the racetrack currently, Schwabe admits that she tries to offer all of her youngsters as yearlings at the sales.

"I am principally a breeder," concedes Schwabe. "I try to sell everything, that is my first objective. If somebody doesn't meet their reserve, then I will take them to the next level."

In Concert...

In May of 1997, Shebandowana (Mt. Magazine) was claimed for $12,500 by Tucci Stables (Carlo and Lou Tucci), which campaigns Midnight Aria. The Ontario-bred filly was a half-sister to Time Limit (Gilded Time), who broke his maiden by 18 1/4 lengths at Monmouth Park in June of 1997 and went on to annex the following season's GIII Spectacular Bid S. and GII Hutcheson S.

"Her half-brother Time Limit broke his maiden at around that time, and I was quite fond of Gilded Time, so I called [the Tuccis] to see if they would be interested in selling her," recalled Schwabe. "She was entered for a $6,000 claiming tag, so I basically told them I would take her for $6,000. She was sore, so probably wouldn't have run well anyway, we went to the track, picked her up and brought her home."

Schwabe continued, "A month after we bought her, we found her hemorrhaging in her stall, so she ended up at the University of Guelph at the Ontario veterinary college. She had a condition called Guttural Pouch Mitosis, and she underwent two very complicated surgeries."

After getting off to a rough--and costly--start with the former claimer, Schwabe bred Shebandowana several times to Gilded Time before taking a chance on the young sire El Corredor (Mr. Greeley). The resulting foal was Wanna Runner, winner of three stakes, including the GIII Lone Star Derby.

"He also ran in the Queen's Plate, and that wasn't his game, but he was a very nice horse for Bob Baffert," said Schwabe.

Shebandowana was subsequently bred to two-time GI Breeders' Cup Sprint champion Midnight Lute (Real Quiet) in 2009, and the resulting foal didn't get off to the best of starts. Cont. p5

“Midnight Aria was quite sick twice as a foal,” recalled Schwabe. “He was hospitalized twice, once we sent him to University of Guelph and the other time he went to Hagyards in Kentucky when the mare was down there being re-bred.”

Once through those early trials, the youngster advanced by leaps and bounds.

Midnight Aria as a yearling

“We always felt if he overcame that, he would be something special,” said Schwabe. “And once he was out of the hospital, and was on the road to recovery, he never took a step back. He blossomed into the most beautiful yearling.”

Offered by agent Hill n’ Dale at the Keeneland September sale in 2011, the colt sold to Lobdell Family Stable for $80,000.

“I had a reserve of $75,000, because I always put very realistic reserves on my horses,” explained Schwabe. “I thought he was very beautiful, but I think we might have had him placed a little bit too early in Book 1. I wanted Bob Baffert to buy him, since he trained [Midnight Lute] and Wanna Runner, but he probably would have been more of a star in Book 2. But I was satisfied. The most important thing to me is that they can go to a good home and have the chance to improve themselves.”

According to Schwabe, Midnight Aria’s full-sister-- who will also be consigned by Hill n’ Dale--will be offered at the upcoming Keeneland September Yearling sale.

“If you look at Shebandowana, she is very unremarkable,” said Schwabe. “She is not a beauty, but we have been so fortunate, because she produces one beautiful horse after the another.”

And the 21-year-old mare is back in foal to the Hill n’ Dale stallion.

“I love the sire,” she said. “I thought he was a brilliant racehorse. I think he was meant to be a Classic horse all along, but the fact that he was compromised by a throat issue and won the Breeders’ Cup Sprint twice, I think it is pretty special when you do that.”

Looking for Value in All the Right Places...

Despite having yielded top class results from a very limited number of mares, Schwabe operates on a very tight budget when she heads to the sales. Schwabe admits the most she’s ever paid at public auction was the $75,000 she gave for Kick’em Jenny (Bold Executive)--dam of MSW Surtsey--at the Keeneland January sale in 2007.

“I try to improve my bloodstock, so I’ll sometimes buy from Keeneland November or January,” offered Schwabe.

“And I like a younger mare. I want a mare that is big, strong and has lots of leg. I like her to have a little more scope. I like to see them have produced something in the past and that they can produce foals that are leggy, then that is great too. I also like a mare to look feminine.”

Surtsey as a foal

When she wears the cap of seller, Schwabe is equally realistic when setting what she considers reserves that will get her yearlings sold.

"I try and put very reasonable reserves," she explained. "I'm not greedy, because I have to make a living."

Schwabe expects to offer five yearlings at sale in 2013; four at Keeneland September (three by Midnight Lute and one by Stormy Atlantic) and one at the Canadian Premier Yearling sale (by Leonnatus Anteas) Sept. 3.

"If we have an Ontario sire, we will offer them here at the Canadian sale, but primarily I sell at Keeneland September, although I have sold at Fasig-Tipton July and Saratoga, as well," explained Schwabe.

Schwabe, who also serves as a National Director for the Canadian Thoroughbred Horse Society and the sales chair, admits she is a very strong supporter of the Canadian bloodstock market.

"We have a very strong local program," affirmed Schwabe. "I really feel that we have a great product in Canada and we produce great horses here."

Case in point is her support of Leonnatus Anteas (Stormy Atlantic), who was a champion 2-year-old in Canada that was raised at Persley Den. A winner on dirt, turf and synthetic, the chestnut won his first three career starts, including the Cup and Saucer S. and Coronation Futurity S. and added a win in the GIII Durham Cup at three.

"I loved Leonnatus Anteas as a race horse and he has a special place in my heart," she said.

The main figure representing Persley Den when venturing out beyond the farm's borders, Schwabe has undoubtedly received much of the accolades for the operation's recent successes. However, she is quick to point out that the farm's accomplishments are the result of the sum of the parts.

"I have been so lucky to have such great people working here, including our farm manager Brian Ferguson and his wife Lorie, who is our vet technician," said Schwabe. "They are such hard workers and just so dedicated. They foal all the mares and take care of things when I'm off at sales. I would be constantly tied to the farm if it wasn't for them, so I am so fortunate to have them. They are a great team and are a big reason why we are here."

Successful in the G2 Prix du Conseil de Paris over 12 furlongs at Longchamp in October and in Saint-Cloud's G3 Prix Exbury on his seasonal bow Mar. 16, Saga Dream had followed a third in the G2 Prix d'Harcourt over the latter trip back at Longchamp Apr. 7 before finishing out of the frame in the June 2 G2 Grand Prix de Chantilly and G3 La Coupe again at Longchamp eight days later. Sent to the front by Christophe Soumillon, the grey ambled through the first seven furlongs at his leisure and was first onto the stand's rail. Driven with a quarter mile remaining, he answered every call to fight off Vally Jem in the run to the line.

The classy two-time Canadian champion Essence Hit Man, hero of the 2012 GIII Vigil S. and GIII Bold Venture S., pulled out a narrow victory to successfully defend his title here. He kicked off his 6-year-old campaign with a runaway win in the Jacques Cartier S. Apr. 27, then was second as the 3-5 chalk in the Vigil June 2. Favored over five rivals in this one, Essence Hit Man enjoyed a clear lead through a swift half mile in :44.01, began to get a bit leg weary late, and was saved by the wire. "[Trainer] Larry [Cappuccitti] said that if I could give him his head a little bit today, and not slow him down as much as I have been, and it worked out," jockey Jesse Campbell said. "He was in his rhythm, so I just let him be."

JRHA SALE LIKE NO OTHER

By Michele MacDonald

From the moment a miniature horse reared on command in the ring, pawing the air to happy shouts of "Banzai!" during high-spirited opening ceremonies, it was clear that Japan Racing Horse Association select sale is not your ordinary auction.

In fact, for many reasons, there is no sale like the JRHA event anywhere on the planet. Visitors from England, Ireland, the United States and Australia during the 16th edition of the sale--held July 8-9 at the Northern Horse Park on the island of Hokkaido--were heard to exclaim that everyone in the business should aim to experience this celebration of elite Japanese breeding.

Miniature horse
Michele MacDonald

In covering the auction over the past decade, it has been dazzling to see everything from the sale of an unweaned filly for $5.2 million to the flamboyant arrival of a prominent owner with his own video team in tow to document his bidding and purchases. But while the JRHA sale certainly boasts a large measure of flash and panache, what makes it singular is that its heart beats to the rhythms of traditional Japanese culture and hospitality.

Long before the first horse is led into the ring, attendants hustle behind refreshment stands, delivering beverages from coffee to wine as a courtesy to guests. Waitresses stroll the pavilion during the more than eight-hour sessions, quietly offering gifts of beer, water, green tea and coffee as the auctioneer chants about the "chichi" (sire) and "haha" (dam) of the horse in the ring.

No one will ever go thirsty or hungry at a JRHA sale unless by choice. From morning until evening, a wide selection of food is provided at no charge, served with customary bows and greetings of "konnichiwa" by a squad of workers preparing everything from steak to crab legs on grills flanking the pavilion. Soba noodles, rice cakes, potatoes, sausages, scallops, and shrimp tempura appear at the buffet, along with Japanese sweets and delicate soft ice cream made from the milk of Hokkaido cows.

This ice cream and virtually any vegetables, including corn, tomatoes, asparagus and potatoes, produced in the mild Hokkaido summer taste distinctively better than any found elsewhere.

And even the squeamish will learn that the expected (and sometimes dreaded by Westerners) seafood is sublime in any form, especially raw. While champagne flows for hours at the presale party, tables are heaped with delectable sashimi and sushi from the cold waters off Hokkaido, which is Japan's northernmost island, lying close enough to Russia to be reached via ferry boat. Savvy partygoers line up like sharks to devour the fish.

While the ambiance is decidedly low-key in keeping with the culture, no details are missed in an attempt to please. With Qatar's Sheikh Fahad bin Abdullah Al Thani making his first foray to the sale, the kitchen staff at the Northern Horse Park restaurants scrambled to concoct some Arabic-style coffee and Middle Eastern foods.

Top Japanese owners and breeders Teruya and Katsumi Yoshida dominate this sale in every way, with their respective Shadai and Northern Farms the leading consignors by numbers offered and sold annually. They are involved in every detail; it was Katsumi Yoshida, for example, who decided to employ miniature horses as a charming novelty this year.

During the opening ceremony featuring the rearing and bowing mini, the JRHA rewarded the owners of racehorses previously sold at the sale who have won major events in the past season, putting the spotlight on those who form the financial backbone of the business.

This year, Sadamu Onishi and Seiho Tanaka garnered special JRHA gold medals for their respective Group 1 winners Sadamu Patek (Jpn) (Fuji Kiseki {Jpn}) and Taisei Legend (Jpn) (King Kamehameha {Jpn}).

Both domestic and international buyers are allotted tables outside the pavilion that are set up under whimsical white tents. There, they can enjoy lunch and the usually cool Hokkaido breezes, or plan buying strategies. Nearby are tents discreetly promoting luxury products, equine services and farms such as Darley Japan.

Translators are provided by Northern Farm for buyers from Australia and elsewhere who often have been personally recruited by Katsumi Yoshida. Teruya Yoshida, longtime JRHA vice chairman, invited Sheikh Fahad to the sale and graciously entertains English-speaking guests at Shadai Farm.

The Yoshidas are magnanimous in opening barn doors to reveal the numerous gems among the Shadai Group's more than 1,300 mares, as well as the stars at their Shadai Stallion Station, home of the world's leading sires by progeny earnings, Deep Impact (Jpn) (Sunday Silence) and King Kamehameha (Jpn) (Kingmambo). To see these horses, and observe how their stock and those of other breeders has improved over the last decade, is as educational and impressive as anything someone from outside Japan could do in the Thoroughbred industry.

Owners tents
Michele MacDonald

Since language can be a formidable barrier, the JRHA calls on Naohiro Goda's Tokyo-based Regent Co. Ltd. to extend invaluable assistance with travel and translation to international visitors. A well-known, popular star on Japanese racing broadcasts, Goda analyzes the sale for domestic TV along with his myriad other duties.

In addition to TV and streaming Internet coverage, the sale draws dozens of journalists from around Japan, where racing is more of a mainstream sport than in the United States, and is widely reported.

Reporters swarm around successful bidders, who are identified when the hammer falls by an assigned number, until the buyers can no longer be seen in the throng. Photographers nearly trample each other as they rush to photograph each horse that brings big yen.

A special area is set up for the photographing of every horse as it exits the ring, and to ensure safety for horses and people, two uniformed guards escort the horses from the pavilion to this outdoor studio. Thirty or more photographers and videographers vie for the best spaces here, and proud new owners sometimes dash out to pose with their purchases as shutters hum.

Farm crew members play recordings of whinnying and wave rakes and jump up and down, if needed, to assure that each horse stands with its ears pricked for a proper image.

But by far the most stunning visual experience and the overall highlight of the entire event is the presale inspection of the foals, accompanied by their dams, entered in the foal session. As expressed by Sheikh Fahad's racing manager, David Redvers, Australian owner Paul Fudge of Waratah Thoroughbreds and Joe Osborne, managing director of Darley's Kildangan Stud in Ireland, there is just nothing like it.

More than 100 mares and foals--some less than three months old--are lined up in lush grass under a canopy of white birch trees just outside the pavilion, with a similar number positioned in an adjacent field. They are ordered by hip number, and buyers and onlookers, many with cameras, stroll among them, observing the babies walk when they are not nursing or trying to doze, their eyes blinking as they rest their heads against their handlers.

In line with the culture, Japanese horsemen tend to be quiet. There is no constant snapping of shanks here, no profusion of lip chains. They speak and move softly. Despite the great number of mares, some of whom are anxious in this stressful departure from routine, there is a pervasive sense of calm.

From this setting, which can only be likened to a paradise by anyone who loves horses, will step foals that command millions of yen. This scene--and this result--cannot be imagined elsewhere.

Media swarming winnign bidders
Michele MacDonald

For the Japanese, this is part of their heritage. Owners here traditionally have desired and competed for the best foals, and the Yoshidas and other breeders have worked diligently to provide an increasingly competitive international product for buyers, both by successfully racing their horses abroad to prove their sire lines and by upgrading their broodmare bands.

Since the Japan Racing Association circuit, which has opened to approved foreign-based owners such as Fudge and Dubai's Sheikh Mohammed bin Rashid al Maktoum, is the most lucrative in the world, high prices for bloodstock can be supported by Japanese racing.

Uniformed escorts
Michele MacDonald

While those high prices work against international buyers in large numbers, 13 horses were purchased by buyers based outside Japan this year, the most ever and perhaps a sign of bigger things to come.

"Japanese breeders have imported many quality broodmares from Europe and United States in the last couple of years, and I am pretty sure next year's catalog will be stronger than this year. I do hope all of the foreign buyers who made purchases this year will come back here next year," Teruya Yoshida said in closing the sale, adding that: "People from America should come, too."

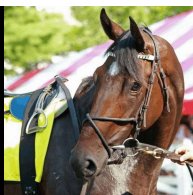

Even though the prices are daunting, the language exotic and the journey strenuous, those fortunate enough to have experienced this sale would not want to be anywhere else.

Appearing he might get the job done in the Nov. 3 GI Breeders' Cup Juvenile Turf, the bay faded late to finish fifth--beaten 2 3/4 lengths--behind winner George Vancouver (Ire) (Henrythenavigator). Well-supported in his seasonal return in the Silky Sullivan S. at Golden Gate June 9, he came from just off the pace to finish a good second. Breaking from the inside here, Gevinho was settled back in fifth through an opening quarter mile in :22.61. Waiting to find some room as they approached the quarter pole, he followed suit as Freakin Rocket accelerated heading into the turn. Swung out into the four path at the head of the lane, Gevinho took over in midstretch and was able to fend off the flying Greeley Awesome at the wire. "We were pointing for this race when we brought him back," trainer Carla Gaines said. "The race at San Francisco, he definitely needed. The track up there was probably not to his liking; he's a big, big horse and he had a tough time going over that turf course. But it set him up for this, it really did. Rising Legend put them back-to-back for trainer Richard Hannon and owner Mohamed Saeed Al Shahi while racing in Britain last term, annexing a Brighton maiden Aug. 8, and a Doncaster handicap Sept. 15.

Purchased privately by this outfit and transferred to John Sadler, Rising Legend rallied from last of 10 to finish a smart second behind Den's Legacy (Medaglia d'Oro) in the Gill Generous S. at Betfair Hollywood Park most recently Nov. 24. Working well for his seasonal debut here, Rising Legend was content to sit in eighth through early fractions of :23.55 and :47.28. With Julien Leparoux aboard, he launched his rally on the far turn, and kept on coming down the lane on the outside to narrowly outkick Gabriel Charles for the win. "We were going to run him in the Breeders' Cup Juvenile, but he didn't get in," Sadler said. "He came out of the Generous with a little heat in his ankle, so we turned him out with the idea of bringing him back for a summer campaign." Leparoux added, "He's a nice horse. TVG Trainer Bob Baffert sends out multiple Grade I winner Executiveprivilege (First Samurai) as the 2-1 morning-line favorite in her 2013 debut here after being sidelined by a shin injury at the end of last year. The Pegram, Watson, and Weitman colorbearer is two-for-two at this venue with consecutive wins in the Gill Sorrento S. Aug. 8 and the GI Del Mar Debutante Sept. 1. This will be her first time facing older horses and she will run without blinkers. The 5-2 morning line second-choice is Gill Santa Ynez S. heroine Reneesgotzip (City Zip), whose resume includes multiple Grade I stakes placings. This is the 2013 debut for the Lanni Family Trust colorbearer after she was scratched out of the July 13 Gill A Glean H. at Belfair Hollywood Park. She scored her highest Beyer Speed Figure of 100 over this track-and-trip in the C.E.R.F. S. Sept. 5. The Peter Miller trainee also boasts a very speedy worktab, firing two bullets in her last three works. Click for the Brisnet.com PPs.

LOUGHNANE FACES BHA HEARING

Conditioner Mark Loughnane is to face a British Horseracing Authority disciplinary hearing after Logans Lad (Ire) (Baltic King {GB}) tested positive for Acepromazine (ACP). A blood sample taken from the 3-year-old following a Mar. 28 stalls test at Wolverhampton highlighted presence of the sedative which, under the Rules of Racing, it is prohibited to be in a horse's system on either raceday or the day of a stalls test. The Aug. 1 hearing will also consider whether Loughnane deliberately misled, or endeavored to mislead, investigators. The trainer should expect a fine if guilt is proven on the first count, but should expect a ban if found guilty of the second charge.

'KING' OF THE ROAD AT HBA SALE A colt by King Kamehameha (Jpn) fetched a final bid of ¥48.3 million (about US$485,359) from prominent owner Riichi Kondo to lead the way at Tuesday's Hidaka Horse Breeders' Association (HBA) Select Yearling Sale in Hokkaido. Catalogued as hip 233, the Apr. 25 foal, bred and consigned by Hidaka Taiyo Bokujo, is a son of Azuma Sanders (Jpn) (Sunday Silence), runner-up in the G1 Oka Sho (Japanese 1000 Guineas) in 2004. It was the second straight year that a colt by King Kamehameha from a Sunday Silence mare topped the sale. A son of La Fortuna (Jpn) was knocked down for ¥31 million last summer. King Kamehameha was also responsible for Tuesday's second-dearest lot in the form of hip 108, a son of Group 3 winner and Group 1-placed Venus Line (Jpn) (Fuji Kiseki {Jpn}). From the consignment of the Sakai Bokujo, the chestnut was purchased by Kazumasa Kobayashi for ¥36,225,000 (about US$363,850). From a catalogue of 237, a total of 143 horses were reported as sold for gross receipts of ¥1.752 billion (about US$17,598,104). The sale average of ¥12,252,692 (about US$123,085) was nearly on par with last year's sale, while 81 horses were led out unsold, resulting in a turnover that was slightly better than 2012 at 63.8%.
