'PHAROAH' RETURNS TO THE TRACK

Zayat Stables's GI Kentucky Derby and GI Preakness S. hero American Pharoah (Pioneerof the Nile) returned to the track Thursday for the first time since his Preakness victory May 16. The bay, who returned to Churchill Downs Monday where he will train up to the GI Belmont S. June 6, jogged once around the one-mile Louisville oval with regular exercise rider Jorge Alvarez aboard.

"He looked very good, I couldn't be happier," said Jimmy Barnes, Bob Baffert's chief assistant. "His energy level is good."

Barnes added, "We'll go to the track tomorrow and Bob [Baffert] will tell me what he wants to do. If he says jog him another day, we'll jog him another day. If he says gallop, then we'll gallop. Bottom line, he is in charge; I'm just the caretaker of the horse."

American Pharoah is following the same post-Preakness regiment Baffert employed with his previous Triple Crown hopefuls Silver Charm (1997), Real Quiet (1998) and War Emblem (2002).

"We come back here with all of our Derby horses and we usually come back this way," said Barnes. "I'd prefer to train here, we're set up here and our barn is here. I mean New York is all right. It's a big track and a sandy track. You get a lot of weather that you get here, but we're comfortable here."

Barnes added, "We had some disappointing years. Point Given...I really thought we could have won the Triple Crown that year and we didn't win the first one. But [American Pharoah] fits right in with the best of them. He's a pleasure to train, he does everything with ease and he's a big mover. I think probably one of his best assets is how he moves. His action and everything is forward and big."

BELARDO FACES GLENEAGLES CHALLENGE

There were no surprises as the draw was made for Saturday's G1 Tattersalls Irish 2000 Guineas, with the May 2 G1 2000 Guineas hero Gleneagles (Ire) (Galileo {Ire}) set to race from stall two under Ryan Moore as he bids to become the eighth to complete the Guineas double. One who is poised to upset the script is Godolphin and Prince Faisal's Belardo (Ire) (Lope de Vega {Ire}), who is looking to rebound from a disappointing effort when eighth in the Apr. 18 G3 Greenham S. at Newbury. On ground contrasting with the easy surface he encountered when winning the G1 Dewhurst S. at Newmarket in October, last year's champion 2-year-old never threatened in that seven-furlong prep for the Guineas but is re-fitted with the hood in which he excelled on Future Champions Day. Trainer Roger Varian is full of hope he can get back on track.

"He did some very nice work on Sunday morning, so the plan is to run him on Saturday," the conditioner said. "You have to keep faith in these horses and you can't write them off after one run, especially as the ground was very quick at Newbury and he just never let himself down. He didn't have a hard race, so he's a fresh horse." Cont. p6

JERKENS DUO TO RUN ON BELMONT DAY

The Jimmy Jerkens-trained duo of Wicked Strong (Hard Spun) and Effinex (Mineshaft) are both eyeing stakes on the GI Belmont S. undercard June 6 for their next starts. The pair was last seen in Aqueduct's

Susie Raisher

GIII Excelsior S. Apr. 25, where Effinex upset his heavily favored stablemate, who checked in third, with a victory at odds of 6-1.

Centennial Farms's Wicked Strong is pointing for the GI Metropolitan H., where he is likely to face GI Belmont S. winners Tonalist (Tapit) and Palace

Malice (Curlin), as well as MGSW Honor Code (A.P. Indy) and possibly GI Breeders' Cup Classic victor Bayern (Offlee Wild). Last year's GI TwinSpires.com Wood Memorial S. and GII Jim Dandy S. hero breezed five furlongs in 1:00.50 (2/22) over the Belmont main track Thursday morning.

"He worked good [Thursday]," said Jerkens. "He's going to work again next week. I felt he ran good enough in Florida, in that mile race [a close fourth to Honor Code in the GII Gulfstream Park H. Mar. 7] to think he belongs. [The Met Mile] is a mile around a big, sloping turn and he's always run good [at Belmont]. It's always nice to run in your backyard if you can. There really isn't anything that's super ideal at the moment, but it sets him up for the summer if he runs [at Saratoga] for the [GI] Whitney [H.] and [GI] Woodward [S.]."

Wicked Strong's sophomore season ended with the colt throwing rider Rajiv Maragh after clipping heels in the GI Jockey Club Gold Cup S. at Belmont Sept. 27. The rangy bay kicked off this term in the Gulfstream Park H. prior to his latest effort in the Excelsior.

Tri-Bone Stables's Effinex will aim for the GII Brooklyn Invitational H. run at the Belmont S. distance of 1 1/2 miles. The dark bay, who was eighth to his stablemate in last year's Wood, is perfect so far this season with a Mar. 27 Aqueduct optional claimer victory to his credit in addition to the Excelsior.

"He's been improving slowly and surely, which is a great sign," said Jerkens. "Even looking at him, the difference between now and when he was a 3-year-old, he almost looks like he's twice the size, and that's what you want. The more he does in open and graded company is best for him in the future to stand as a stallion. He won going 1 1/4 miles [in the Excelsior]; I can't say that he was a fresh horse at the end, but he fights until the end. When you have a horse with that kind of determination you know anything can happen."

CHRB APPROVES MENU OF SUMMER DATES

By T.D. Thornton

On Thursday the California Horse Racing Board approved upcoming racing dates at four tracks that extend through Labor Day, but not before several of the meet applicants--Los Alamitos Race Course and Del Mar Thoroughbred Club, specifically--were grilled about finances, marketing initiatives and stabling issues.

Thoroughbred meets at Los Alamitos (July 2-12), the California Exposition and State Fair at Sacramento (July 10-26), Del Mar (July 16-Sept 7) and Sonoma County Fair at Santa Rosa (July 30-Aug 16) were all unanimously approved pending the filing of routine paperwork such as fire inspections, bond deliverances and horsemen's association contracts. Cont. p4

But prior to voting on the Los Alamitos license, CHRB member Madeline Auerbach wanted an explanation as to why the applicant, which she described as being in a “deficit situation,” was budgeting a “very generous” $350,000 for the July 4 GII Los Alamitos Derby, instead of, say, $250,000.

“I don’t believe we could have attracted the same horses for $250,000,” said Brad McKenzie, speaking on behalf of Los Alamitos Racing Association. “It would have affected our graded status. We’re hoping to make this race a Grade I....It is highly competitive for these types of horses. This race is the centerpiece of our racing.”

McKenzie continued, “We’ve been out of sight for six months. We ran a meet in December, now we’re coming back in July for eight days. I don’t have the luxury of getting into a meet and just letting it build. If we don’t get [the bettors’] attention the first weekend, we’re done. So we need a race that not only locally, but nationally, lets people know that Los Alamitos is back.”

Auerbach next wanted to know if Los Alamitos had moved forward with any of the backstretch security enhancements the CHRB had suggested to all licensees at previous meetings. Several other board members echoed the sentiment that the CHRB had made those suggestions with the hope that the tracks and the Thoroughbred Owners of California (TOC) would partner to voluntarily beef up security so the CHRB would not have to mandate new rules.

“To answer your question bluntly, we have not implemented anything. We have not placed security cameras in the barn areas,” McKenzie said.

Joe Morris, president of the TOC, stepped up to clarify that “the TOC is still committing dollars to [a security plan], and we’re just starting here and moving forward with it.”

McKenzie, who seemed to bristle at Auebach’s line of questioning, then spoke to the broader question of financial matters at Los Alamitos.

“[The California] industry is still trying to find its equilibrium after the closing of Hollywood Park--where do these dates go and what’s the best way for the industry to move forward?” McKenzie asked rhetorically. “Right now this is what we’ve got and we’re trying to make the best of it...Last year we knew that we were going to be overpaid for the year. We didn’t feel we had a choice...We realized that was a price we had to pay to get these meets off to as good a start as possible...When you’re in this competitive a market, you have to offer purses that attract horses. When you have an eight-day meet in between Santa Anita and Del Mar, if you just run [lower quality] races, you’re going to get bypassed.”

Auerbach countered, “I hear you, and it’s not just a price you pay, it’s a price we all pay when these things happen.”

When Del Mar’s application came up for discussion, Alan Balch, executive director of the California Thoroughbred Trainers, told the CHRB that his organization had not yet signed its contract with Del Mar over stabling concerns, which he described as “the elephant in the room.” Cont. p5

Balch said that issues such as overcrowding at Del Mar and the lack of information about whether stabling would remain open at Santa Anita Park, Los Alamitos and elsewhere during the Del Mar meet “results in the horsemen being held hostage” about planning when and where to race. Another factor in play was the CHRB’s tabling of an agenda item over whether race dates on Sept. 26 and 27 would be transferred from Santa Anita to Los Alamitos.

Balch acknowledged that the situation wasn’t entirely Del Mar’s fault or responsibility, but backed off of his planned request for the CHRB to mediate the affair when CHRB officials stepped in to explain that they were already working toward progress to resolve the issue.

“We’re very concerned that late in June is not only pushing the envelope [for decisions on stabling and race dates], but breaking the envelope,” Balch said. “Everybody needs to know what the situation is going to be going forward, especially [with Del Mar being] our showcase meeting.”

Tom Robbins, Del Mar’s executive vice president of racing and industry relations, updated the CHRB on the changeover to dirt from a synthetic surface on the main track and the progress of second-season growth on the turf course.

“The often-mentioned El Segundo sand is the same material that we have at Santa Anita,” Robbins said.

He added that the main track conversion was completed in April, and that for the first time in the track’s history, 150 Thoroughbreds began training at Del Mar in the month of May.

As for the turf course, Robbins said, “We have one more year of maturity under our belt. The new course is moving along beautifully. We’re out there almost every day and it’s very, very good at this point.” With a new watering and aeration system, he said, “we’re getting to the point where it [will be] in optimum shape for opening day.”

Given the drought conditions in California, Robbins said Del Mar is using reclaimed water for all main track and turf course hydration.

In other news, CHRB executive director Rick Baedeker reported the CHRB has been authorized to augment its budget by up to $1.2 million for contracted testing with the Kenneth L. Maddy Equine Analytical Chemistry Laboratory to avoid a cut in services for the new fiscal year that begins July 1.

And in a personnel switch, jockey Alex Solis has been appointed to the CHRB, replacing first vice chair Bo Derek, who resigned to pursue other business opportunities after serving nearly seven years. According to the CHRB, it the first time a current or former jockey has ever been appointed to the board.

PATRICIA BOSICA

Dear Dean:

Read your article about "sideshows" displacing the focus on the race and I completely agree. Well said! When I watched the Derby (do I have to say "presented by Yum!", hate that) and the Preakness swim meet, I absolutely cringed when they showed movie stars, asked "who are you wearing," whatever, blah, blah, to fill up air time. Who cares? Why not show more about HORSES? Show what it takes to train a race horse, life on the backside, exercise riders, the skill and guts the jockeys need every ride. Let the public see the complete picture of racing to fully illustrate how tough it is, how much dedication it takes to get a horse to race and win. Preaching to the choir, right?

Just my two cents, Dean. Thank you to you and your company for great articles.

Sincerely,
Patricia Bosica

Varian continued, "His work had been excellent leading up to that race and has been excellent since. He doesn't want it too quick and ground easier than good is favorable, so we just hope it doesn't dry out too much. We'd be very confident that, provided the ground isn't too quick, we've still got a very good horse on our hands."

The going at the Kildare venue is currently good-to-yielding, with the forecast leading up to the race mainly dry. That will play further into the hands of Gleneagles and make life even more difficult for the remainder, although faster ground than is currently the case will also suit Khalid Abdullah's Tombelaine (First Defence). Just three-quarters of a length behind Gleneagles and a head in front of Convergence (Ire) (Cape Cross {Ire}) when second in Leopardstown's G3 Tyros S. over seven furlongs in July, the Dermot Weld trainee returned to win the Listed Tetrarch S. over that trip in testing conditions here May 4. Field p7

EPICURIS PASSED STALLS TEST

Juddmonte Farms' G1 Criterium de Saint-Cloud hero Epicuris (GB) (Rail Link {GB}) came through a stalls test at Chantilly Thursday morning, but trainer Criquelette Head-Maarek cannot rest on her laurels ahead of the G1 French Derby. While the bay successfully passed through the gates, he did so only accompanied by Nicolas Blondeau, the man renowned for helping Goldikova (Ire) (Anabaa) at the start of races. With the rules different in France to England, Head-Maarek will now apply for special dispensation for Blondeau to be with the colt at the start of the G1 Prix du Jockey Club. Epicuris needed to pass a stalls test after refusing to enter them before his scheduled run in the G2 Prix Greffulhe.

Epicuris
Scoop Dyga

"He went in so they have agreed to let him run," said Head-Maarek. "The only problem is, he only goes in with the same man each time, Nicolas Blondeau, so we are asking if he can come when he races. In England it wouldn't be a problem but the rules are different here."

Added the trainer, "We tried him without him, first time he went in fine, but the second time he wouldn't. He obviously trusts him, but horses are like women--they can be a bit funny! So, I'm smiling that he's passed the test, but I'm not pleased. We need to write to the stewards so I'm not sure when we'll find out if they will let Blondeau come."

Head-Maarek's superstar is due to make her comeback in the Group 3 Prix Corrida at Saint-Cloud. The 5-year-old mare will attempt to win a third Arc at the end of the season, something no horse in history has ever done.

"Treve will run next Friday in the Prix Corrida," said Head-Maarek. "She galloped on Tuesday at Chantilly under Thierry Jarnet and went very nicely. I think she's spot on. If she wins or runs very well then the [G1] Grand Prix de Saint-Cloud at the end of July is her first major aim."

'POWER' TO CONTEST GREENLANDS

Sabena Power's Irish highweight and MG1SW Sole Power (GB) (Kyllachy {GB}) will have his first run on home soil since August 2011 in the G2 Weatherbys Ireland Greenlands S. at The Curragh Saturday. Eddie Lynam's globetrotting star last ran in Ireland in the G3 Flying Five S. at The Curragh when second to Amour Propre (GB) (Paris House {GB}). He also had the option of the G2 Temple S. at Haydock, a race he won in 2011, on the same day, but Irish fans will now get the chance to see one of their great performers. What also worked in The Curragh's favor is that regular rider Richard Hughes is in Ireland this weekend to ride Ivawood (Ire) (Zebedee {GB}) in the G1 Tattersalls Irish 2000 Guineas.

Sole Power
Racing Post

Lynam told the Irish Herald, "We want to run this weekend. The ground at The Curragh is good to yielding and I am happy with that. [We're also] keen to run in Ireland after so long."

Sole Power has taken his connections all around the world and Paddy Power, spokesman for the bookmakers of the same name whose parents own the sprinter, added, "We decided this weekend the best option was to run at The Curragh. We'd spoken to somebody who walked the track at Haydock and the ground is just a bit softer there so it's going to be more suitable at The Curragh. Richard Hughes will be at the Curragh, too."

'GREY' CAMP HAPPY WITH GOING

Kevin Ryan believes the ground is turning in The Grey Gatsby (Ire) (Mastercraftsman {Ire})'s favor as he prepares his dual Group 1 winner for the G1 Tattersalls Gold Cup at The Curragh Sunday. The going at The Curragh was described Thursday morning as good to yielding and the forecast is for dry weather through the weekend.

The Grey Gatsby
Racing Post

"I think the ground is coming in his favor now and it could be good on Sunday, which would be ideal," said Ryan. "I wouldn't even worry about good to soft. What he doesn't want is very soft ground. Hopefully the ground will come for him."

Ryan is convinced what helps make The Grey Gatsby stand out is that he thrives on traveling.

"He's a very simple horse to deal with and always has been. He does exactly what you want him to do," the North Yorkshire trainer told At The Races. "He's great in the mornings and he's a good traveler as well. He seems to enjoy going away from home and he relaxes when he goes to the racecourse."

'KANDI' AIMS FOR SWEET VICTORY IN 10,000

A full field of 16 plus one also eligible line up for the G1 Doomben 10,000 in Queensland, Australia Saturday led by current favorite--the 5-1 Ciaron Maher-trained Srikandi (Aus) (Dubawi {Ire}). The chestnut filly displaced one-time market leader Our Boy Malachi (Aus) (Top Echelon {Aus}), trained by Team Hawkes, in the betting after drawing an ideal position in barrier five, while the latter has been hung out to dry in post 12. Third in last year's G1 Stradbroke H. in June, Srikandi landed the G2 Victory S. at the Gold Cost Apr. 25, but enters the Doomben 10,000 on the back of an eighth-place performance when slowly away in the 1200-meter G1 BTC Cup, with Our Boy Malachi (Aus) third and Bring Me the Maid (Aus) (Sebring {Aus}) fourth at this venue May 9. "She's come through the BTC Cup ok, she just had an easy week and had a strong gallop yesterday and she was nice and bright today," Ciaron Maher told www.anzbloodstocknews.com. "She worked over 1000 meters and came up a strong 600 and her times were good. Hopefully she can get away cleanly and get back to her best form." Our Boy Malachi ended 2014 with a win in the Razor Sharp S. this past December prior to a three-month spell and returned to take the G3 Hall Mark S. at Randwick Apr. 18 over this distance one start before the BTC Cup. "Statistics don't win big races, barriers do," said co-trainer Michael Hawkes to www.anzbloodstocknews.com. "The horse is flying. It's just unfortunate he's drawn badly [but] he's quite adaptable and doesn't have to lead. His last run when third in the BTC Cup was quite good but he had to do too much work in the first 400 meters. If you swap barriers with the winner it's a different result." Peter Moody's G1 Golden Slipper third and Group 2 heroine Bring Me the Maid will try to buck history and become the first 3-year-old filly to win since Sea Siren (Aus) (Fastnet Rock {Aus}) in 2012, who was the first such winner in 80 years. She faces a tall task, however, despite carrying the lightest impost of 121 pounds, leaving from stall 16. Any moisture Doomben receives in advance of the race will only increase her chances. Runner-up in this race in 2014, Temple of Boom (Aus) (Piccolo {GB}) could also factor and was most recently seventh in the BTC Cup against several of these.

KAVANAGH STOOD DOWN BY STEWARDS

Sam Kavanagh, a trainer at Rosehill in Australia, has had his training license suspended by the Racing NSW stewards Wednesday and will face an inquiry concerning eight charges involving cobalt and caffeine in three of his horses reported Racing and Sports. His license status depends on the outcome of the hearing June 4.

Midsummer Sun (GB) (Monsun {Ger}) tested positive for both substances after winning the Listed Gosford Gold Cup in January of this year. Additionally, Kavanagh was charged for breeches of a racing rule dealing with race day medication administration. The other two Kavanagh horses involved are Ceda Miss (Aus) (Encosta De Lago {Aus}) and Palazzo Pubblico (Aus) (Conatus {Aus}), who raced at Warwick two days prior to Midsummer Sun's win. The stewards released a statement which says that Kavanagh admitted giving misleading evidence during the investigation. Further incriminating evidence has surfaced in relation to the race day administration and supply of medications to Kavanagh.

"In suspending his trainers' licence...stewards formed the opinion that Mr. Kavanagh's continued participation in racing might pose an unacceptable risk to prejudice the image, interests or integrity of racing," said the stewards' statement.

MELNYK DOING WELL POST TRANSPLANT

Long-time Thoroughbred owner and breeder Eugene Melnyk, who also owns the Ottawa Senators hockey team, is in stable condition after a successful liver transplant Tuesday, according to the University Health Network's website. The donor, who wishes to remain anonymous, is also doing well.

"We are delighted and relieved that Eugene's post-transplantation recovery is progressing very well," the Melnyk family said in a statement which was read by Dr. Atul Humar, Program Medical Director, Multi-Organ Transplant, at a news conference at Toronto General Hospital Thursday. "In the past 36 hours, we have already witnessed a dramatic improvement in Eugene's overall condition."

The UHN transplant program received over 500 health histories from people willing to donate a piece of their liver to Melnyk.

This G1 Epsom Derby trial, previously known as the "Predominate," sees Godolphin's Best of Times try and book a late ticket to the blue riband on the first Saturday in June. Overcoming unsuitably fast ground to win the May 2 Listed Newmarket S., the bay faces the May 7 G3 Chester Vase second and third Storm the Stars and Medrano, who will give a guide to the merit of that race's winner and Ballydoyle's potential Derby first-string Hans Holbein (GB) (Montjeu {Ire}). Saeed bin Suroor said of Best of Times, "He won well at Newmarket last time and he has pleased me since. He worked very nicely five days ago and he is ready to go. We would like some cut in the ground for him. If he runs well, then the Derby is on the cards." John Gosden holds a strong hand for the June 6 Classic and saddles the Apr. 18 Newbury maiden scorer Mr Singh, who beat the subsequent winner Scottish (Ire) (Teofilo {Ire}) with the promise of more to come.

Moore Named Aus HOF Legend:

Former Australian champion jockey George Moore, already an inductee in the Australian Racing Hall of Fame in 2001, added another accolade Thursday evening in Brisbane, Australia when he was recognized as a legend of Australian racing reported Racing and Sports. The hoop earned 10 NSW premierships beginning in the 1956-1957 season and his mounts were first past the post in 119 Australian Group 1 races, a record that still stands. Moore also ventured farther afield and booted home winners of the G1 Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe and the G1 Epsom Derby during his career. "George Moore was more than simply a great jockey, he was an international sports star, the likes of which are rarely seen," said Bob Charley, chairman of the selection panel. "He was a true legend of racing and tonight his name rightfully stands alongside the sport's greatest names."

Other 2015 Australian Racine Hall of Fame inductees include jockeys Glen Boss and Robert Thompson; trainers Brian Mayfield-Smith, Jim Moloney and Harry Telford; associates owner/breeder Eduardo Cojuangco and journalist Bert Lillye. Four horses were added to the Racing Hall of Fame in 2015: Dalray (NZ) (Balloch {GB}), Choisir (Aus) (Danehill Dancer {Ire}), Briseis (Aus) (Tim Whiffler {GB}), and Danehill (Danzig).
