RAIL DRAW FOR VINEYARD HAVEN

While a gaggle of his barnmates are soaking up the California sunshine in advance of the Breeders' Cup in a little more than two weeks, Godolphin's Vineyard Haven (Lido Palace {Chi}) is the headliner in a field of nine for Saturday's GI DeFrancis Memorial Dash at Laurel Park. A dual Group 1 winner at two, the grey did not train well in the desert over the winter and was fourth in the G3 UAE 2000 Guineas in his lone Nad al Sheba appearance in February. Returned to Saratoga, site of his success in the GI Hopeful S. in 2008, for his comeback test, he crossed the line first in the GI NetJets King's Bishop S., but was demoted to second for causing interference in the stretch. He must overcome the inside post as he tries older rivals for the first time in his career. "It is not going to be easy from the rail, but we are 8-5 in a Grade 1, so we'll take our chances," commented assistant trainer Rick Mettee.

BREEDERS' CUP BULLETIN

BAFFERT BRIGADE OUT IN FORCE

The Santa Anita Pro-Ride was the scene of four sensational workouts from Breeders' Cup-bound horses from the Bob Baffert barn. Zayat Stables' Zensational (Unbridled's Song), the likely favorite for the GI Sentient Jet Breeders' Cup Sprint, went five-eighths of a mile in a blistering :57.80, the fastest of 18 works at the distance. The second-best work of the day was nearly three seconds slower. "Zensational worked nice," said Baffert, who sent out Midnight Lute (Real Quiet) to wins in the last two runnings of the Sprint and also took the 1992 renewal with Thirty SLEWS. "That work the other day [six furlongs in 1:10.60 last Thursday] really caught him back up to speed. He hasn't lost his form." Unbeaten in five starts around one turn this season, Zensational took the GI Pat O'Brien S. at Del Mar in his most recent appearance Sept. 6.

Baffert's juvenile hopes worked in company yesterday morning. Lookin at Lucky (Smart Strike), who should go favored in the GI Grey Goose Juvenile off wins in the GI Del Mar Futurity and the GI Norfolk S., earned the bullet for six panels, covering the distance in a sparkling 1:11.80. Always a Princess (Leroidesanimaux {Brz}), runner-up to Blind Luck (Pollard's Vision) in the GI Oak Leaf S., was given a clocking of 1:12.60 for the GI Juvenile Fillies. "They're good workmates," the silver-haired conditioner commented. "They're both the same quality, so they stay together."

Richard's Kid (Lemon Drop Kid), who rates a longshot look in the GI Classic, worked a half-mile in :46, the best of 35 works at the trip.

SHE BE WILD WORKS FOR JUVENILE FILLIES

Nancy Mazzoni's She Be Wild (Offlee Wild) has remained at Keeneland since her game runner-up effort behind Neglige (Northern Afleet) in the GI Darley Alcibiades S. Oct. 9, and turned in her first work since, drilling five furlongs in 1:02.80. Jockey Garrett Gomez was aboard for the Alcibiades, but Julien Leparoux has the call Nov. 6 and put the filly through her paces yesterday morning. "She worked good," said trainer Wayne Catalano, who took the 2006 Juvenile Fillies with Dreaming of Anna (Rahy). "We were happy with her. Julien had her nice and relaxed. She finished up good and galloped out strong." She Be Wild, who RNA'd for $19,000 out of this year's OBS April sale, is scheduled to work at Keeneland Oct. 29 and leaves for California Nov. 2.

SEPTIMUS OUT OF MARATHON

Derrick Smith's Septimus (Ire) (Sadler's Wells) has been ruled out of next month's Breeders' Cup Marathon at Santa Anita, according to Racing Post. Last term's G1 Irish St Leger winner has been on the shelf since finishing sore when off the radar in November's G1 Melbourne Cup at Flemington. "It has been decided not to send Septimus to California for the Breeders' Cup Marathon, and he's not going to run this year," trainer Aidan O'Brien told the trade daily.

MACHO AGAIN THE LATEST CLASSIC CASUALTY

West Point Thoroughbreds's Macho Again (Macho Uno) will be forced to miss the GI Breeders' Cup Classic due to a cough he developed following an Oct. 17 workout. "Talk about bad timing," Terry Finley, president and CEO of West Point Thoroughbreds, said in a release. "We're going to have to skip a breeze. This disrupts his training schedule enough that we aren't going to send him to the Super Bowl of Thoroughbred racing a work or two short. Of course the partners are disappointed. They had voted to go to Santa Anita, but we all knew that this was the right thing to do." According to the release, the four-year-old could be pointed for a start in the GII Clark H. at Churchill Downs Nov. 27. Macho Again took the GI Stephen Foster H. at the Louisville oval this past June and was a valiant runner-up to Rachel Alexandra (Medaglia d'Oro) in the GI Woodward S.

All horses in the TDN are bred in North America, unless otherwise indicated

ROYER-DUPRE LOOKING FOR FIRE IN HEARTH

Having saddled Lashkari (GB) (Mill Reef) to a 53-1 upset in the inaugural GI Breeders' Cup Turf at Hollywood Park 25 years ago, French champion trainer Alain de Royer-Dupre is hopeful that Sweet Hearth (Touch Gold) can give him a second Breeders' Cup victory at Santa Anita next month. The three-year-old distaffer is slated to make her first appearance on an artificial surface in the Nov. 6 GI Sentient Jet Breeders' Cup Filly & Mare Sprint. After recording a short-neck verdict in the Sept. 4 Listed Prix de la Cochere at Chantilly, Sweet Hearth went down by a short head to stable-mate Varenar (Fr) (Rock of Gibraltar {Ire}) in the Oct. 3 G1 Prix de la Foret at Longchamp, with last season's GI Breeders' Cup Mile heroine Goldikova (Ire) (Anabaa) back in third. "Sweet Hearth is on course for the Filly & Mare Sprint," de Royer-Dupre said. "She has never worked on an artificial surface, but seven furlongs looks to be her best trip--a mile is just a little too long. I don't think that she will have a problem with Pro-Ride, it looks a very fair surface, and she will work on it when she gets out there. She is getting better and better with every race, and I think that she can be a great filly. She goes there with a great chance--if she can beat Goldikova in the Foret, then I am sure that she can run well at the Breeders' Cup. It's a long trip out there, but as long as she copes well with the journey, then she can be a factor at Santa Anita."

A Group 3 winner in her native France last season, Belle Allure was a close fourth in the G2 Prix Daniel Wildenstein against males last Oct. 4, then shipped to the States to be seventh in the Dec. 21 GII Dahlia H. at Hollywood Park. The 1 1/2-length winner of a second-level allowance at Belmont May 21, she faltered as the chalk in the July 22 Donor S. in Elmont and was exiting a runner-up effort in the restricted Voodoo Dancer S. at Saratoga Sept. 4. Heavily favored in this rescheduled event, Belle Allure hugged the fence while part of the second flight of three as the field raced down the backstretch. Sorely lacking room while still buried on the inside in upper stretch, she looked destined for second as Kristi With a K got first run, but knifed through from between rivals and got up in the final jump. "It turned out to be kind of a paceless race," explained winning jockey Ramon Dominguez. "We were bunched up the whole race. I was panicking a little bit when we turned for home because there was really no racing room. Eventually, I was able to get my filly out, and she responded pretty well. She was at that point spotting a couple lengths to [eventual runner-up] Kristi with a K, but she was able to get up."

ALL ABOUT PRIDE FOR NEW SYNDICATE

By Lucas Marquardt

NP Bloodstock's homebred Pride (Fr) (Peintre Celebre) brought the group to the top levels of racing. The immensely talented homebred captured Group 1 races in England, France and Hong Kong, finished a neck adrift of Rail Link (GB) in the 2006 G1 Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe, and was retired after a win in that year's G1 Hong Kong Cup with earnings of over $3.9 million.

PRIDE RACING CLUB

- 2009 YEARLING OFFERINGS -

Galileo (Ire) – Pride (Fr), by Peintre Celebre

First foal out of triple Group 1 winner Pride, who was the highest-rated filly or mare in the world in 2006 and the highest-rated mare 2007. "He's extremely striking," said Carina Klingberg Hanson. "You can see some similarities with her. He has a lot of expression in his head and eyes, and he's a very good walker, as she was."

Oratorio (Ire) – Happy at Last (GB), by in the Wings (GB)

The second foal from winner Happy at Last, whose first, the three-year-old Bum Bum (Fr) (Giant's Causeway), is listed-placed and now in training with Graham Motion in the States. "He's like a lot of the Oratorios--he's very strong," said Klingberg Hanson.

Medicean (GB) – Seltitude (Ire), by Fairy King

Out of Group 3 winner Seltitude, this colt is from the extended family of In the Wings (GB), Dubawi (Ire) and Virginia Waters. "He's a super walker, and is a good strong colt," said Klingberg Hanson.

Dalakhani (Ire) – On Fair Stage (Ire), by Sadler's Wells

Produced by the listed stakes winner On Fair Stage, who is also the dam of listed winner Gale Force (Fr) (Sinndar {Ire}). "It's a fashionable nick, with Dalakhani and Sadler's Wells, so hopefully that's a good omen," said Klingberg Hanson. "He's very good-looking. His second dam is Fair Salinia (Ire) (Petingo {GB}). She was one of the first yearlings purchased by my husband, and she became the first Classic horse for Michael Stoute. She won the G1 Irish Oaks, G1 Yorkshire Oaks and G1 English Oaks. That was in '78."

NTRA REPORT FROM CAPITOL HILL

TAX BENEFITS FOR FARM EQUIPMENT & HORSES EXPIRING

Horse and farm owners still have time to take advantage of tax benefits from the Economic Stimulus Bill and the Farm Bill. Note that the benefits are not limited to the purchase of horses, as certain farm equipment and other depreciable business property also qualifies.

The 2009 Economic Stimulus Bill expires this year and allows the purchaser to expense up to $250,000 of a horse or qualifying property this year, even if either had been used previously. It also permits an owner to write off 50% of the cost of a horse or almost all other new property that has a depreciation life of 20 years or less.

The Farm Bill offers through 2013 a uniform three-year depreciation schedule for all young racehorses (24 months and under) when purchased and placed into service. In prior years, these purchases were depreciated on a seven-year schedule. The new legislation allows owners to depreciate in half the time as in the past and better reflects the length of a horse's racing career.

Please contact a tax professional to discuss your personal situation.

Now, NP Bloodstock is hoping Pride can help bring success down a different avenue of racing, as it launches a new syndicate named after their star. This fall, the Pride Racing Club will offer shares in four yearling colts bred by NP Bloodstock. They include Pride's first foal, a bay by leading sire Galileo (Ire), as well as youngsters by Oratorio (Ire), Dalakhani (Ire) and Medicean (GB).

Pride Racing is similar to other syndicates that offer its horses as a group--a Pride Racing share consists of an interest in all four horses--but differs from most in that all of its offerings are homebreds.

"We'd been thinking for a long time of how to do a partnership," explained Carina Klingberg Hanson, director of NP Bloodstock. "We thought it was a good year to start this, because we had the first yearling out of Pride, and she's quite well-known all over, and we have such a good group of horses. It's a little unusual, I would say, at least in Europe. Of course you have a lot of racing clubs and syndicates, but most of those horses are coming directly from the sales. The big difference here is that these horses are coming directly from the paddocks, more or less, of the breeder."

Set to officially launch Dec. 1, Pride Racing is comprised simply of all the colts produced by NP Bloodstock's broodmare band. NP Bloodstock has about 10 mares at its Haras de Vieux Pont in the Normandy region of France, and also has a few in Australia and the U.S. Cont. p6

"Our policy is that we'll put in all colts--we won't do a selection," Klingberg Hanson said of Pride Racing. "Because who knows who are the good ones and who are the bad ones? It would be quite awful if you kept the good colts and the bad colts were in the syndicate."

The ownership of the four colts has been broken down into 40 shares, of which NB Bloodstock will retain a minimum of 10. They have been valued as a group at €850,000. Training fees, which include all costs through the end of their three-year-old years, have been estimated at €275,000, with all other costs and the reserve, to cover "unforeseen costs," set at €235,000, for a grand total of €1.36 million. That puts the amount for each share at €34,000.

Syndicate members are entitled to 1/40th of all purse money and proceeds from any sale, as well as premiums earned through the lucrative French breeding program.

"It's very favorable," Klingberg Hanson said of the program. "If they are French-bred or -qualified, when they run as two-year-olds, they get 75 percent on top of the prize money for owners." All four colts are eligible for the French owner premiums.

Klingberg Hanson hopes Pride Racing will be a yearly endeavor. Future syndicate groups will be tied to how many colts are produced each spring, of course, and the estimated value of them. NP Bloodstock currently has 10 foals on the ground, four of which are colts, including Pride's second foal, by Dansili (GB).

Carina Klingberg Hanson is married to Sven Hanson, a longtime horseman who has been involved in the business for some three decades. He has campaigned, among others, the very good Fair Salinia (Ire), who in 1978 recorded the G1 Epsom Oaks / G1 Irish Oaks double. The Hanson family has controlled the Salinity Group, a major distributor of salt in Europe, for over 180 years. Carina and Sven are both natives of Sweden, but have called Switzerland home for many years. Salinity purchased Haras de Vieux Pont, a former dairy farm, in 1993.

NP Bloodstock has, up until now, offered its yearling colts at auction and kept and raced the fillies, and horses raised at Haras de Vieux Pont have put up solid numbers. According to its website, the farm has turned out 25 percent black-type horses to foals, with 16 percent stakes winners, 11 percent graded/group winners, and a trio of Group 1 winners.

Klingberg Hanson believes one factor in the nursery's success has to do with the manner in which the horses are raised.

Sven & Carina Hanson

"We are very careful not to overcrowd," she said.

"Many years ago, Sven asked Michael Stoute and Neil Drysdale what's a common trait among their best race horses, and they said they were bred on big farms with not too many horses. So we try to follow that policy. We have about 220 acres there, and 18 mares altogether, because we have some outside mares from clients from Germany. That allows us to rotate the paddocks and keep them fresh, and that's important."

The primary reason for beginning Pride Racing Club, according to the Klingberg Hanson, was to open up racing to friends, family and associates, some of whom were turned on to the sport by the exploits of Pride. A bonus of the syndicate, however, is that they are now able to choose which trainers their horses will go to. In this case, all four horses will be conditioned by the man who guided Pride's career, the Chantilly-based Alain de Royer-Dupre.

"When you sell, you can't control where they're going," said Klingberg Hanson. "For us, as the breeder, it's very important that they go to a good trainer, to help the mare and help the family. So we wanted to do something where we knew the yearlings were going to go to a good trainer. With Alain, they will have the best chance at success."

Because Pride Racing is offering homebreds, it becomes somewhat difficult to establish a value on the yearlings in its syndicate. After all, horses put through an auction, ostensibly at least, automatically have a dollar figure put on them and can be re-sold to syndicate members based on that figure. The Hansons said they tried to be as realistic as possible when valuing their stock.

"You try to estimate how horses have been selling recently, and you have to consider the market," said Klingberg Hanson when asked about the process.

"Now, in the current market, it's probably lower than before. We also took advice from some professionals. They came up with a figure, and the board of NP Bloodstock came up with a figure, and it was roughly the same amount."

Then, too, is the consideration of not cashing in at auction on a horse with a sterling commercial pedigree, such as the Galileo--Pride colt.

"It's tough," Klingberg Hanson said of that colt. "Of course we were thinking about it. But for Pride Racing, it's more important to keep and race them than to squeeze the last penny out of them at the sales. In the long term, hopefully, we will be rewarded. I think, actually, if you had gone to the sale with a horse like, say, the Dalakhani, he could possibly have made a lot of money. People say he could be the best [of the group]. But you want to come up with a reasonable amount, and we tried to put the value lower than if you went out to the market, because we want it to be successful. Even if we don't have the full market value at the beginning, at the end, if they're successful, we will be, too."

Klingberg Hanson said the response to Pride Racing has been successful thus far, with roughly 20 of the 30 open shares already sold. The unofficial deadline to purchase shares is Dec. 1.

"We haven't marketed it, but the idea is that it should be a nice group of people who can have a nice time together," Klingberg Hanson explained. "We've been sending it out to friends and business people, and it's a very international group. We have people from Chile in South America, we have a Chinese friend in Singapore, and more or less all over Europe. There are quite a few Scandinavians. Most of the people are horse people in some way, but there are a few who have not owned horses before."

Galileo - Pride colt

Klingberg Hanson said she and her husband are aiming to make the process as enjoyable as possible for syndicate members.

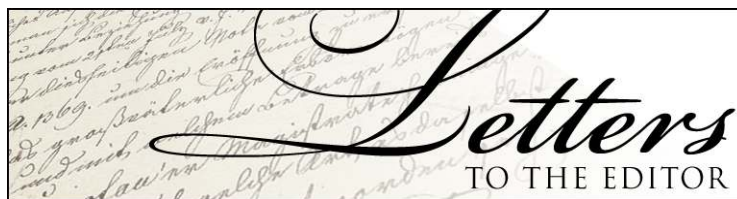

"We want to be able to help people arrange to see the races in France, to come out to the stud farm and see the mares, and to see next year's crop of foals," she said. "And we want to give them plenty of information. From what I understand, most owners don't feel like they get enough information about the horses."

Klingberg Hanson said she's aware of the need for a young racing club to get off to a fast start, and she believes Pride Racing's first quartet of colts give them a good shot at doing just that.

"Not because they're our horses, but they're extremely nice, all of them," she said. "I think it's our nicest foal crop, almost ever. They're all athletic, they all walk very well, they are correct and very easy to handle."

She added with a laugh, "And if one of the four doesn't go on to become a nice horse, I think I will eat my hat."

Greg Schuler is the Advertising Sales Director for Horseman Publishing Co., based in Lexington, Ky., publisher of the Standardbred industry's only weekly magazine, The Horseman And Fair World, and its daily news and data website, www.harnessracing.com. He has been with the company since 1981. He owns both Thoroughbreds and Standardbreds.

With my morning cup of coffee and today's Lexington Herald-Leader came the latest installment of everyone's favorite soap opera: "How Not To Get Slots at Kentucky Racetracks." Now the Republicans want a constitutional amendment on gaming, the Democrats are calling it political posturing, and we all know that idea is too little too late anyway.

I sat back in wonderment at how all this has careened so very much out of control.

I live in a very nice neighborhood in Versailles, Kentucky, the heart of Thoroughbred country. And I mention my neighborhood, as it will come into play shortly. I race Thoroughbreds in partnerships, which is my hobby. I also race Standardbreds and ply my daily trade in advertising in the Standardbred business, for which I am presently very grateful.

The Standardbred business, for all intents and purposes, left Kentucky many years ago, amid little fanfare and no collective wringing of hands by the news media. Despite that, our overall business has grown steadily over the past years, thanks in large part to new income generated--of course--by the "slots states"--New York, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Indiana and the province of Ontario. Even with the recent economic meltdown, our industry's declines have been only slight compared to our Thoroughbred counterparts. We've had to adapt, with no help from anyone.

And that word, "help," is at the core of my opinion here.

I attended KEEP's (Kentucky Equine Education Project) post-mortem rally at the Keeneland sales pavilion earlier this year, after the most recent try at slots legislation went nowhere fast. As I looked around the pavilion one thing was quite apparent. These were very well-to-do people in attendance. I know many of them. They drive late-model SUVs, BMWs, Jaguars and Lexuses. Their kids go to the best private schools. They wear Ralph Lauren. Many live in beautiful houses on neatly manicured Bluegrass farms.

And they're telling the citizens of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, "We need help."

Letter to the Editor cont. p8

As I drove home that evening, I wondered how that message would fly with my neighbors on my nice little street. One of my neighbors is facing on-and-off layoffs and had to take a second job; his wife has had her hours cut back and health insurance reduced. Another neighbor is a young accountant with two daughters and an expecting wife who told me not long ago that his company is on the brink of closure.

So please tell me, how does KEEP's message fly with them? And how does it fly with an old grade-school friend of mine in Louisville who just lost his job at the Ford plant? Those people are rank-and-file, voting Kentuckians, and let me tell you, they really don't care one whit if racetracks and breeding farms stay open or close down. They never go to the track, and they really don't care. They're generally OK with the idea of slots or casino gambling in Kentucky, no problem there, but the question I get is, "Why should those rich horse owners get all the money from slots?"

You and I fully understand the importance of the horse business to Kentucky, and the foundation it provides for so many jobs in the state. But my neighbors think if the industry is dying, it's not their fault, and so be it. And if money is raised by future gaming legislation, they'd like to see some benefit from it themselves.

So what went wrong went wrong early on, as KEEP's banging away at the idea of "we need help" has provided, since day one, the perfect definition of "bad marketing." Don't let the general public perceive what they believe to be a lie. You're doomed from the outset when that happens.

If KEEP were never organized, and the Thoroughbred industry's focus from the beginning was placed entirely on "the state needs money and here's a convenient way to raise it...by expanding the menu at places where gaming already exists," slots income might well be accruing in the purse accounts at Kentucky tracks as you read this.

Remember, in all of the states that have passed race-track slots legislation, the horse business was almost never mentioned, only the need to raise immediate income for the state and to help agribusiness. You might disagree with my thoughts here, but that's a plain fact. And they've been successful. We haven't.

I'm not naïve. I know political forces are at odds here and a bigger picture exists. But even with that being the case, if things were focused properly from the start, Sen. Williams would have a hard time going back to his constituents and explaining to them why he voted against improved healthcare for the elderly, tuition assistance for students, and road and bridge improvements. And all with no tax increase.

So if you want slots in Kentucky, please, enough of the wailing and crying "help." That message is just not working. Cut bait. Get to work at the grassroots level politically and start focusing marketing efforts solely on the need to raise money for the state--for education, health services and in so many areas where we need assistance. My Kentucky-based runners need better purses.--Greg Schuler, Versailles, Ky.

When and how did you get into racing? I was a serious every day horseplayer in high school, but gave it up to pursue an education and a career. About 15 years ago, I returned to the game by claiming a few horses with a boyhood friend who had become a trainer (Jim Buss). Now my wife and I have horses in training in both California and Kentucky and a small broodmare band.

Is racing a business or a hobby for you? How many horses do you have? The business is a business, of course, but it is very difficult to operate successfully when not engaged full-time, especially on the breeding side of the business. I have recently retired from my day job, and we are spending the majority of our time in Kentucky now. I am hoping this will translate into better results. We have just under 50 horses, of which 15 are in training.

How do you come up with Green Lantern Stables? When we started back in racing, in the mid-1990s, I was working on a collection of classic super hero comic books. The stable is named after the Green Lantern, an early DC comics' character.

Gotta Have Her was very expensive for a Royal Academy yearling. What was it about her that made you feel she'd be worth the price? Who picked her out? Jenine Sahadi picked out Gotta Have Her. I almost stopped bidding until Jenine grabbed my arm and said, "I gotta have her!" Jenine is a good nick with Royal Academy because we had previously raced two other Royal Academics, Annabelly and Academy Spy, and they could both run. Annabelly is a broodmare for us now and her first foals are just now getting to the races and are being trained by Jenine.

It has been a great year for fillies taking on colts. How do you feel about sending Gotta Have Her against the boys in the Breeders' Cup Turf Sprint? In November, I don't think it matters running a mare against males as long as she has enough talent. This is the race that best fits her running style.

Are you a Dodgers or an Angels fan? Who has the best shot at the World Series? I have been shuttling back to Los Angeles to watch my Dodgers play, but I think the Angels are a better team.

What's the best restaurant in L.A. that nobody knows about? What is the best thing on the menu? We have two favorites in LA-- Vincenzo on Montana makes a killer Penne Vodka and veal saltimbocca; Palmieri on San Vicente has terrific short ribs.

What is the best gift you were ever given? That was a 40th birthday party at Hollywood Park on Derby Day (thanks again, Sue).

Who is your favorite musician? Ron Mael of Sparks.

What is your favorite holiday? July 4th.

What is your drink of choice? Weller's bourbon, 19 year, on the rocks.

What do you do to pass the time when you're stuck in L.A. traffic? Just think about getting back to the farm and the horses in Kentucky.

BRUCE HUNDLEY DIES Bruce Hundley, co-breeder of champion Fly So Free and owner of Saxony Farm near Lexington, Kentucky, passed away early Wednesday morning at an area hospital. He was 67 years old. Born in Louisiana, Hundley worked for Kentucky horseman Doug Davis, Jr. at Oaklawn Park in 1968 and relocated permanently to the Bluegrass later that year to work at Davis's High Hope Farm. Hundley's association with Fly So Free began in 1987, when he went to $150,000 for Free to Fly (Steward) in foal to Time for a Change at the Keeneland November sale. Foaled at Saxony the following spring, Fly So Free won the GI Champagne S. and clinched divisional honors with a victory in the GI Breeders' Cup Juvenile for owner Tommy Valando and trainer Scotty Schulhofer. He was equally brilliant at three, winning five graded events, including the GI Florida Derby, and was the second choice in the GI Kentucky Derby, in which he was fifth to Strike the Gold. Also raised at Saxony Farm was Arazi, bred by longtime client Ralph Wilson. Racing for Allen Paulson, the chestnut colt became the champion of his generation in France and stormed to an impressive success in the 1991 GI Breeders' Cup Juvenile. Among the other horses raised and sold by Hundley for Wilson was Ajdal (Northern Dancer), a $7.5-million yearling who went on to become a champion sprinter in France and England. Hundley also served for seven years on the Kentucky Racing Commission from 1992 to 1999. He was appointed to the post by former Kentucky Governor Brereton C. Jones. Hundley is survived by a son Broussard, who operated Saxony Farm with his father, and a daughter, Kristin, who lives in Virginia. OAK TREE CUTS PURSES Beginning Saturday, Oct. 24, Oak Tree will cut overnight purses by 10 percent, it was announced Wednesday. "We tried to maintain the purse levels that we started the meet with, but due primarily to the soft economy, business has been soft and we had to make this adjustment," said Director of Racing Michael J. Harlow, adding, "This is simply a business decision. Oak Tree is a short meet, and we need to be responsible when it comes to the purse account. The horsemen have been supportive thus far, and I'm hopeful they will continue to be, even though we are dealing with a severe horse shortage here in California." The total handle at the Oak Tree meet is down 12 percent from last year. Oak Tree Director and Executive Vice President Sherwood Chillingworth explained, "Unemployment here in Los Angeles County is near 13 percent, and across the country it's nearing 10 percent. As a result, our handle is off across the board. On top of that, for a variety of reasons, our horse inventory is down significantly from last year. We remain optimistic that we can finish up strongly with the Breeders' Cup, but we really have no other choice at this time other than to make this cut." Oak Tree did not announce the purse cut without first talking to the horsemen. "Obviously, they consulted with us before they made the decision," said Marsha Naify, the chair of the board of directors of the Thoroughbred Owners of California. "It was not something we wanted to do. You go into the meeting and set the [purse] schedule, and you try to do it based on the economic reality and on what's going on in our industry right now. We fell a little bit short, thus requiring the purse cut." There is some hope that the shortfall might be made up. "If business were to suddenly increase, and we had more money than we thought, we could raise the purses retroactively, according to what races had been run," Naify added. "We try to keep the horsemen's account relatively even at the end of the meeting."

MEYOCKS TO BID FOR KY SENATE SEAT Terry Meyocks, the former Chief Operating Officer of the New York Racing Association, has announced his intention to run next year for a seat in the Kentucky State Senate, according to published reports. The 58-year-old filed papers with the state to raise campaign funds to run for the seat in the 12th district, which covers much of southern Fayette County. The seat is currently occupied by Republican Alice Forgy Kerr. While a member of the senate's budget committee, Kerr voted against an expanded-gambling bill last summer. "She turned her back on the racing industry," Meyocks told the Daily Racing Form. "She turned her back on racing and Keeneland." Meyocks, a Democrat, is co-owner of the Nicholasville-based racing consultant firm Meyocks & O'Hara Racing Enterprises. Cont. p2

Purchased privately and sidelined thereafter, she resurfaced Sept. 12 to finish a troubled fourth in an optional claimer on the Arlington lawn, and was the 2-1 choice here. PROVENANCE

ASKBUT I WON'TTELL (Horse Chestnut {SAf})

Team Block, the highly successful Illinois-based operation of David and Patricia Block and their son Ryan, is well known--particularly in the Midwest--for having bred and raced the likes of MGSW Mystery Giver (Dynaformer), his graded-stakes winning half-sister Ioya Two (Lord at War {Arg}) and Fort Prado (El Prado {Ire}). Rare is the horse that is purchased by Team Block, but it appears they may have struck gold with Askbut I Won'ttell.

Possessed of a pedigree which screams long and grass, the chestnut filly made a favorable impression in her Dec. 5 debut over 5 1/2 furlongs of the Laurel main track, rallying late to be second. Shipped to Florida for the winter, she stretched to two turns on the Gulfstream turf Jan. 11 and drove to a 1 1/4-length victory at odds of nearly 19-1.

"Two things got my attention," commented Chris Block, who trains the family's horses in Chicago and was in attendance with his parents yesterday at Keeneland. Askbut I Won'ttell has been under the care of trainer Neil Pessin in Lexington. "First, the race at Laurel on the dirt. Knowing her pedigree, I didn't think she was a dirt filly. We love to run horses on the grass, and I thought she might fit the profile of a Chicago horse, possibly even like a Pucker Up-type horse at Arlington. Her race on the dirt showed me she had a lot of grit. Even though she probably wasn't the most comfortable over it, she dug in hard going 5 1/2, and she's bred to go further. Then to follow it up with a really impressive maiden score. I liked everything I saw, thought she had good size to her, and then when my dad really liked the looks of her in person, then I really got excited about her."

It was a sale, as it turns out, that was really meant to be.

"I was actually pursuing her for [Arlington President] Mr. Duchossois over the winter," Block admitted, adding that he was alerted to the filly by East Coast bloodstock agent Ed Muarano. "I came to find out I was second in line for her. The first group actually turned her down because she had a flake in an ankle. I had sent my dad, who was in South Florida at the time, over to Palm Meadows before the other group had vetted her. When we found out she had the flake and that the other group had turned her down, I told my dad that, and he loved her so much that he was willing to negotiate a lower price and try to rehabilitate that ankle and bring her back to the races."

Block continued, "[Mr. D.] wanted her to come to Arlington to run, but that wasn't going to happen when we found the chip. That didn't stop my dad and we negotiated the lower price. We have the resources to do it, because we have a farm in Ocala and it works for us to send horses there and get them ready off the layoff. Everything kind of lined up."

Away for eight months, Askbut I Won'ttell resurfaced in an entry-level allowance on the Arlington turf Sept. 12, but was bumped at the start and was running on late to be fourth.

"I think she just needed the race," commented Block. "She trained well up to it, and our goal was to get a race into her at Arlington. I maybe had her a work or two short of where she could have been. I thought she was Keeneland quality, and I thought if she didn't win [at Arlington], she'd be competitive in an a-other-than at Keeneland, so it all worked out."

Block, who saddled Vacare (Lear Fan) to win the GI Queen Elizabeth II Challenge Cup in 2006, says there's nothing quite like winning at Keeneland as an owner.

"It's pretty special," he offered. "Any time an operation like ourselves can come out of Illinois and come to Keeneland and be competitive and win one here is pretty special for the whole team, really."

As for the next start for Askbut I Won'ttell, the team is going to take things one step at a time.

"She's going to go with Neil to the Fair Grounds over the winter, and we'll hopefully continue to develop her there," Block stated. "If she gets another race of this quality under her belt, then we'd be looking at a stakes. We kind of like to bring them along and bring them slowly into something like that. Neil is a great guy and I have all the faith in him. He's a great horseman. You give him a horse that can do a little something and he does a great job." --Alan Carasso

ARQANA SUCCESS DEFIES THE TRENDS

Arqana's October Yearling Sale ended on a high yesterday after a barnstorming final session, in contrast to many of this season's yearling auctions, took the overall average past last year's equivalent. With the session average of €23,520 representing a massive 33-percent increase on 2008, and the median of €16,000 up by seven percent, the overall average for the three-day venue was €25,659, jumping up by 10 percent. Arqana's General Manager Olivier Delloye commented, "The buyers' list shows a very healthy market, with over 145 individual investors signing the docket, and many of them acting on behalf of several clients. It means that the buying bench at this sale was as broad and diversified as ever, including some high-profile overseas investors who have not always made the trip to Deauville for this session. It is also encouraging to see that breeders of commercially attractive yearlings that have not reached their full potential in August have a very valuable alternative in the October sale. Indeed, none of the well-bred, well-made individuals that were offered this week slipped through the net, and several vendors were even positively surprised with what they got for these youngsters." Cont. pX

Whipping Up a Storm...

Topping the final day's proceedings was a daughter of Whipper, who sold to Horse France for €125,000. Out of the group-placed Hasanat (GB) (Night Shift), hip 348 is a half-sister to the 2003 G3 Killavullan S. third Takrice (GB) (Cadeaux Genereux {GB}) and 2007 G3 Derrinstown Stud 1000 Guineas Trial fourth Ela Enta (GB) (Royal Applause {GB}), from the extended family of Zafonic and Zamindar. "This filly has been bought for Jim Bolger, and it's the first by the sire that Jim has purchased," Horse France's Robert Nataf said. "She looks strong, and Whipper's two-year-olds are all doing very well this year, so, hopefully, she'll be a very nice horse." Her tag represented a major increase on the €24,000 paid for her at last year's Goffs November Foal Sale, and was a notable highlight for Thierry de Chambord's Haras de Saint Pair, who also sold a Mr. Greeley colt for €75,000. Hip 363 is the first foal out of Indian Maiden (Ire) (Indian Ridge {Ire}), whose tally included a remarkable seven listed races and a sole group success in the 2006 renewal of Deauville's G3 Prix de Meautry. From the extended family of Winning Colors (Caro {Ire}) and Tap Dance City (Pleasant Tap), he was knocked down to Paul Nataf, buying for the "Telesi Group" of Libyan owner Salah El Mabruk. "The owner had bought a very nice Danehill Dancer (Ire) colt here last year, and I bought a filly by Green Tune for him yesterday," Nataf said. "This looked a real nice colt and very much a racehorse, so we are delighted to have him." Twelve lots earlier, trainer Joel Boissnard paid €80,000 for hip 351, a daughter of Kingsalsa from the draft of Haras de la Haie Neuve. The February-foaled half-sister to the smart listed performer Torrid Hell (Fr) (Vettori {Ire}) is out of a half to the top-class Herboriste (GB) (Hernando {Fr}) and Fast and Furious (Fr) (Singspiel {Ire}), as well as the dam of Ballydoyle's promising juvenile At First Sight (Ire) (Galileo {Ire}).

Hot Hurricane...

The first crop of Hurricane Run (Ire) are in demand, and it was Coolmore's 2005 Arc hero who was responsible for a colt purchased by John Hammond for €70,000. Hip 491, who was consigned by Haras d'Ommeel on behalf of Gestut Ammerland, is a grandson of the top Chilean runner Miss Brio (Chi) (Semenenko). Also popular, Shamardal is one of the leading first-season sires at present, and his colt consigned by Haras du Mezeray as hip 498 went to Gaybrook Lodge Stud for €67,000. His second dam is Allen Paulson's 1996 GI Santa Ana H. winner Pharma (Theatrical {Ire}), whose siblings include the high-class full-brother Hap, and who has produced the talented Petrovich (Giant's Causeway). Anthony Stroud was in action again, securing l'Elevage de Tourgeville's hip 439, a daughter of Dalakhani (Ire) whose extended family includes the top-class three-year-old Jukebox Jury (Ire) (Montjeu {Ire}), for €65,000. Laurent Benoit's Broadhurst Agency paid €62,000 for Haras du Logis St Germain's hip 500, a Slickly (Fr) half-sister to this year's G2 Prix de Malleret runner-up Terre du Vent (Fr) (Kutub {Ire}), while Nicolas Clement paid €61,000 for Haras de Grandcamp's hip 415, a son of Xaar (GB) whose dam is a half to the sire Chimes Band (Dixieland Band). PHILARIO TOPS DONCASTER

Doncaster Bloodstock Sales' October Sale rolled on yesterday, with the 2007 G3 Sirenia S. winner Philario (Ire) (Captain Rio {GB}) heading the flat prospects when selling for £50,000. Also the winner of a valuable handicap at The Curragh in May, the four-year-old, consigned by Spigot Lodge Stables as hip 407, was the subject of a bidding battle between trainers Derek Shaw, Mick Easterby and David Nicholls, but it was the DBS representative Tim Kent who won the day on behalf of BBA Ireland. Kevin Ryan's Hambleton Lodge Stables consigned hip 336, the two-year-old gelding Sejanus (GB) (Dubai Destination), and the recent Wolverhampton maiden winner was knocked down to Al Banwan Stables for £22,000. He will now be shipped to Kuwait, where he will race for his new connections. The middle session's average of £5,219 was up by 25 percent on the 2008 equivalent. Aidan O'Brien has dominated this maiden in recent times, and saddled subsequent G1 Criterium de Saint-Cloud and G1 Irish Derby winner Fame and Glory (GB) (Montjeu {Ire}) to win a fifth straight renewal last year. O'Brien was responsible for five of this season's field, but it was Flying Cross, the choice of retained rider Johnny Murtagh, who bettered an Oct. 7 debut fourth at Gowran Park, overcoming greenness to win this second go in ultimately convincing fashion. He raced in a close fourth after the opening exchanges and was gathered together for his bid with three furlongs remaining. Taking time to find his stride once angled off the rail approaching the final furlong, the 4-6 favorite swept by Brazilian Beauty (GB) (Galileo {Ire}) with 150 yards to go and lengthened clear of that rival in impressive style to register a 3 1/2-length success.
